creative sensibilities Indigenous writing relinquished its narrative preference for social realism in favour of traversing old territory in new spiritual ways roots converted into routes Standard postcolonial readings of indigenous texts often overwrite the difference they seek to locate because critical orthodoxy predetermines what difference can be Critical evaluations still tend to eclipse the ontological grounds of Aboriginal and M ori traditions and specific ways of moving through and behaving in cultural landscapes and social contexts Hence the corrective applied in Circles and Spirals to look for locally and culturally specific tracks and traces that lead in other directions than those catalogued by postcolonial convention This agenda is pursued by means of searching enquiries into the historical anthropological political and cultural determinants of the present state of Aboriginal and M ori writing principally fiction Independent yet interrelated exemplary analyses of works by Keri Hulme and Patricia Grace and Mudrooroo and Sam Watson Australia provided the thick description that illuminates the author s central theses with comparative side glances at Witi Ihimaera Heretaunga Pat Baker and Alan Duff New Zealand and Archie Weller and Sally Morgan Australia

Adult Intentions, Student Perceptions Kristin E. Reimer, 2018-12-01 Restorative justice RJ is an idea whose time may have finally arrived Although the concept has ancient roots and the term has existed in Western societies since the 1970s only recently has it gained general public recognition In schools RJ s popularity is rising world wide In fact education is the fastest growing area for the practice of RJ Despite an increasing number of schools embracing the approach it is not clear what educational RJ practitioners are trying to achieve Adult Intentions Student Perceptions How Restorative Justice is Used in Schools to Control and to Engage focuses on the use of RJ in one school in Scotland and one in Canada While important to understand the intentions of educators in using RJ in schools those aims must be examined alongside the actual impact that such practices have on students RJ can be understood and experienced in dramatically different ways by those implementing it For some RJ is about creating an environment of and for student engagement that challenges traditional systems of discipline and facilitates learning For others RJ is simply another tool for solidifying compliance and meting out punishment albeit in a kinder gentler way Adult Intentions Student Perceptions provides the opportunity to delve deeply into the stories of two schools and the adults and young people who inhabit them and consider the broad impact that differing educator understandings of RJ have on students Adult Intentions Student Perceptions is a timely book for RJ advocates and critics alike It challenges a common assumption of some RJ advocates that implementing RJ necessarily creates a classroom environment of social engagement where students are empowered to engage with one another and think critically and school relationships and hierarchies are transformed The student experience relayed in this book shows that RJ can as readily be mobilized to create classroom environments of social control where students are taught obedience and compliance and authority and hierarchy are reinforced Reimer argues that RJ by itself does not guarantee certain qualities of relationship but RJ does allow us to examine relational qualities and ask questions of how school relationships are used to engage and or control students

Between the Layers: Spiderwoman Theater, Storyweaving, and Survivance Jill Carter, Strange Voices in Narrative Fiction Per Krogh Hansen, Stefan Iversen, Henrik Skov Nielsen, Rolf Reitan, 2011-10-27 From its beginnings narratology has incorporated a communicative model of literary narratives considering these as simulations of natural oral acts of communication This approach however has had some problems with accounting for the strangeness and anomalies of modern and postmodern narratives As many skeptics have shown not even classical realism conforms to the standard set by oral or natural storytelling Thus an urge to confront narratology with the difficult task of reconsidering a most basic premise in its theoretical and analytical endeavors has for some time been undeniable During the 2000s Nordic narratologists have been among the most active and insistent critics of the communicative model They share a marked skepticism towards the idea of using natural narratives as a model for understanding and interpreting all kinds of narratives and for all of them the distinction of fiction is of vital importance This anthology presents a collection of new articles that deal with strange narratives narratives of the strange or more generally with the strangeness of fiction and even with some strange aspects of narratology
