Focus On: 100 Most Popular Nonlinear Narrative Films Wikipedia contributors, The Cinema of Isolation Martin F. Norden, 1994 Filmmakers have often encouraged us to regard people with physical disabilities in terms of pity awe humor or fear Others who somehow deserve to be isolated from the rest of society In this first history of the portrayal of physical disability in the movies Martin Norden examines hundreds of Hollywood movies and notable international ones finds their place within mainstream society and uncovers the movie industry's practices for maintaining the status quo keeping people with disabilities dependent and in their place Norden offers a dazzling array of physically disabled characters who embody or break out of the stereotypes that have both influenced and been symptomatic of society's fluctuating relationship with its physically disabled minority. He shows us sweet innocents like Tiny Tim, obsessive Avengers like Quasimodo, variations on the disabled veteran, and many others. He observes the arrival of a new set of stereotypes tied to the growth of science and technology in the 1970s and 1980s and underscores movies like My Left Foot and The Waterdance that display a newfound sensitivity. Nordens in-depth knowledge of disability history makes for a particularly intelligent and sensitive approach to this long overlooked issue in media studies.

Broadcast Hysteria A. Brad Schwartz, 2025-09-23

On the evening of October 30, 1938, radio listeners across the United States heard a startling report of a meteor strike in the New Jersey countryside. With sirens blaring in the background, announcers in the field described mysterious creatures, terrifying war machines, and thick clouds of poison gas moving toward New York City. As the invading force approached Manhattan, some listeners sat transfixed while others ran to alert neighbors or to call the police. Some even fled their homes. But the hair-raising broadcast was not a real news bulletin; it was Orson Welles's adaptation of the H. G. Wells classic The War of the Worlds. In Broadcast Hysteria, A. Brad Schwartz boldly retells the story of Welles's famed radio play and its impact. Did it really spawn a wave of mass hysteria, as The New York Times reported? Schwartz is the first to examine the hundreds of letters sent to Orson Welles himself in the days after the broadcast, and his findings challenge the conventional wisdom. Few listeners believed an actual attack was under way. But even so, Schwartz shows that Welles's broadcast became a major scandal, prompting a different kind of mass panic as Americans debated the bewitching power of the radio and the country's vulnerability in a time of crisis. When the debate was over, American broadcasting had changed for good but not for the better. As Schwartz tells this story, we observe how an atmosphere of natural disaster and impending war permitted broadcasters to create shared live national experiences for the first time. We follow Orson Welles's rise to fame and watch his manic energy and artistic genius at work in the play's hurried yet innovative production. And we trace the present-day popularity of fake news back to its source in Welles's show and its many imitators. Schwartz's original research, gifted storytelling, and thoughtful analysis make Broadcast Hysteria a groundbreaking new look at a crucial but little understood episode in American history.

Orson Welles's Last Movie Josh Karp, 2025-06-25

Journalist Josh Karp shines a spotlight on the making of The Other Side of the Wind, the final unfinished film from the auteur of Citizen Kane. In Orson Welles's Last Movie, the basis of Oscar-winning director Morgan Neville's Netflix Original Documentary They'll Love Me When I'm Dead, in the summer of 1970, legendary but self-destructive director Orson Welles returned to Hollywood from years of self-imposed exile in Europe and decided it was time to make a comeback movie. Coincidentally, it was the story of a legendary self-destructive director who returns to Hollywood from years of self-imposed exile in Europe. Welles swore it wasn't autobiographical. The Other Side of the Wind was supposed to take place during a single day, and Welles planned to shoot it in eight weeks. It took six years during his lifetime only to be finally completed more than thirty years after his death by The Last Picture Show director Peter Bogdanovich, who narrates the film and released by Netflix Orson Welles's Last Movie is a fast-paced behind-the-scenes account of the bizarre, hilarious, and remarkable making of what has been called the greatest home movie that no one has ever seen. Funded by the Shah of Iran's brother-in-law and based on a script that Welles rewrote every night for years, the film was a final attempt to one-up his own best work. It's a production best encompassed by its star, the celebrated director of The Maltese Falcon, John Huston, who described the making of the film as an adventure shared by desperate men that finally came to nothing.

Perspectives on Orson Welles Morris Beja, 1995. Director, writer, producer, and actor Orson Welles (1915–1985) was an artist both of considerable achievement. Eighteen essays, commissioned for this volume by such critics and scholars as André Bazin, David Bordwell, Laura Mulvey, Robert Carringer, James Naremore, and director Henry Jaglom, address a wide range of issues from Welles' use of sound to his abilities as actor-director.
