Citizens And The State:

Citizens and the State Hans-Dieter Klingemann, Dieter Fuchs, 1995-11-23 Fears that representative democracy in western Europe is in crisis are examined on the basis of trends in mass attitudes over the past two or three decades The evidence suggests not crisis but a changing relationship between citizens and the state This change poses a democratic transformation in the countries of Western Europe Series Description This set of five volumes is an exhaustive study of beliefs in government in post war Europe Based upon an extensive collection of survey evidence the results challenge widely argued theories of mass opinion and much scholarly writing about citizen attitudes towards government and politics The series arises from a research project sponsored by the European Science Foundation Series ISBN 0 19 961880 1 The Political History of the United States of America, During the Period of Reconstruction (from April 15, 1865, to July 15, 1870,) Including a Classified Summary of the Legislation of the Thirty-ninth, Fortieth, and Forty-first Congresses Edward

McPherson, 1871 Public Administration in an Information Age I. Th. M. Snellen, Wim B. H. J. van de Donk, 1998 This book is a joint effort of researchers who have been involved in research projects and programmes that have been trying to chart and reflect upon the implications of Information and Communication Technologies ICTs for Public Administration Tilburg Rotterdam Kassel Irvine Nottingham Glasgow Since the fifties computers had largely facilitated and the transformation of the minimal Night Watch state into the modern Welfare state through their contribution to their effectivity productivity and efficiency In most Handbooks of Public Administration computers are seen as neutral instruments and most of the time the role of computer technologies in the transformation of public administration is completely neglected This deafening silence is a great contrast with the way ICT s are actually changing public administration The faster the developments in a field of study are the more difficult it is to let the theories related to that field of study mature In such circumstances most statements will remain provisial and context dependent 25 years of research in Irvine California and Kassel Germany and more than 10 years of research in Tilburg Rotterdam The Netherlands and about seven years of research in Glasgow Nottingham the United Kingdom nonetheless enables the presentation of a modest image of public administration as it is entering the information age Researchers in each of these groups have nevertheless not stopped trying to phrase theories about the implications of informatization for public administration with a more or less larges scope that are robust in different contexts and over longer periods of time These results and theories covering a broad set of elements of the body of knowledge of public administration are presented in this volume As the authors try to demonstrate in this book informatization developments in public administration do not only challenge the existing body of knowledge of the public administration discipline but they are also opening up new perspectives and paradigms for the study of public administration

Citizens and the State Takashi Inoguchi, Jean Blondel, 2008 This book is about the relationship between citizens and the state Their relationship has tended to be argued from a top down perspective without systematically examining empirical data about their association In contrast Citizens and the State analyses the relationship from a primarily bottom up standpoint Using the 18 country cross national survey the Asia Europe Survey data it examines how citizens relate themselves to the state Featuring case studies on France Germany Spain Sweden Britain Taiwan Japan Indonesia Greece Italy Korea the Philippines Portugal Ireland Thailand Malaysia Singapore and China the book systematically examines the relationship by asking three questions how strongly do citizens identify themselves to the country how much confidence do citizens place in the state and its institutions how satisfied are citizens with life and politics Innovatively the book attempts to answer these questions by first setting up six types of relationship between citizens and the state via factor analysis of the survey data pertaining identity confidence and satisfaction then by examining country profiles more closely and beyond the six types The book will be of interest to students and researcher of political science political theory comparative political science Asian Studies European Studies and sociology

Nation-Building as Necessary Effort in Fragile States René Grotenhuis, 2025-10-01 Policies intended to bring stability to fragile states tend to focus almost exclusively on building institutions and systems to get governance right Simply building the state is often seen as sufficient for making it stable and legitimate But policies like these Ren Grotenhuis shows in this book ignore the question of what makes people belong to a nation state arguing that issues of identity culture and religion are crucial to creating the sense of belonging and social cohesion that a stable nation state requires
