'A portrait of human nature in all its weirdness,
intricacy and eccentricity'
SUNDAY EXPRESS

exploration as well as a literary celebration of the fascinating young adult fantasy series this companion guide takes readers deep into the rich universe of Cassandra Clare's New York Times bestselling Shadowhunter Chronicles franchise. With intelligent yet accessible dissections of each volume of both the Mortal Instruments series and the Infernal Devices series, Liv Spencer delivers the next best thing to a Shadowhunter's codex with commentary on the books as well as their references to folklore, legends, and literature. The guide also recounts Cassandra Clare's publishing story from journalist and fan fiction writer to bestselling author, explores the cast and crew who brought the first book to life in the film The Mortal Instruments: City of Bones premiering in August 2013, and delves into the franchise's fans, a passionate community that is anything but mundane. From the Clave to Chairman Meow and demon pox to dastardly ducks, Navigating the Shadow World is both an insightful introduction to the world of Cassandra Clare and a satisfying companion book for fans. Falling Angels Melissa Garcia, 2006 After a panicked phone call, Luc Actar returns to Los Angeles and his previous life in order to try and find an old friend before the police do. Factual Fictions Leonora Flis, 2010-08-11 Factual Fictions: Narrative Truth and the Contemporary American Documentary Novel focuses on contemporary American documentary narratives, specifically the documentary novel as it re-emerged in the 1960s and later developed into various other forms. The book explores the connections between the documentary novel and the concurrent rise of New Journalism, aka literary journalism, in the United States, situating the two genres in the cultural context of the tumultuous 1960s and an emerging postmodern ethos. Flis makes a comprehensive analysis of texts by Truman Capote, Norman Mailer, John Berendt, and Don DeLillo while tackling discussions on various theoretical complexities with assurance and rigor. Interested in the precarious divide between fact and fiction, the author productively complicates traditional notions of the two poles. Furthermore, the book examines parallels between contemporary Slovene documentary narratives and their American counterparts. Flis's work, with its systematic and innovative approach to the subject matter, adds an important historical dimension to the developing field of literary journalism studies as well as to the more established area of 20th Century American literature. On the Trail of Europa Donald N. Yates, 2021-06-10 Journal by Donald N. Yates of travels through Italy, Croatia, Greece, and Turkey in the summer of 2011, with photographs of Rome, Venice, Verona, Ephesus, and other sites. The author comments on the emerging society of the European Union and takes notes on ancient ruins of the Mater Magna or Great Goddess cult. The author and his wife spend time with an Italian friend at her remote farmhouse in Soave wine country and take a cruise from Venice to Greece and Turkey, with ports of call in Dubrovnik and Bari. Third edition, 2000. Re-Entering Old Spaces Aleksandra Nikčević-Batricević, 2016-05-11 This book is a product of the XI International Conference on English Language and Literary Studies held in Montenegro in 2014. The old spaces were taken as a metaphorical tool for reintroducing a wide range of established topics with new approaches. Space was thus understood as physical, mechanical, continuous, linear, as measurable and symbolic, as subjective and relational, and as aesthetic. It was found on maps, in architecture, on theatre stages, in books, in hearts in one's identity in time and in theses and theories from the Aristotelian topos to Einstein's construct of space time. Therefore the means of travel to these spaces and the forms the journeys take are also multifarious. However so are the discursive strategies and their limitations when it comes to presenting the journeys and their destinations. The contributors to this volume represent a range of nationalities and present research that either follows in the footsteps of other authors in a literal or secondary literary journey to real geographical places or observes the universal literary and old theoretical issues through new critical lenses. Indeed they are often on both roads witnessing how inextricable human efforts are to finding identifying and aestheticising oneself in relation to a particular space. Their contributions to this book expose how spaces were created and recreated through writing and symbolical representations in general. They also show how the images of these spaces have been changing in consent to the intentions of their visitors and reveal that persistent and obstinate moment in a space that despite or in spite of changing perspectives itself refuses to be changed. The book will encourage for further contributions to this expanding field in the humanities. In their numerous and distinct ways the contributions to this particular book maintain that understanding how spaces are conceived and conceptualised is of pronounced importance in the globalized world in which cultures are gradually losing authenticities while their spaces geographical tourist spiritual literary aesthetic are as reflective of the visitors as they are of the hosts.

Land of Sunshine William Deverell, Greg Hise, 2006-06-30 Most people equate Los Angeles with smog sprawl forty suburbs in search of a city the great what not to do of twentieth century city building. But there's much more to LA's story than this shallow stereotype. History shows that Los Angeles was intensely ubiquitously planned. The consequences of that planning the environmental history of urbanism is one place to turn for the more complex lessons LA has to offer. Working forward from ancient times and ancient ecologies to the very recent past Land of Sunshine is a fascinating exploration of the environmental history of greater Los Angeles. Rather than rehearsing a litany of errors or insults against nature rather than decrying the lost opportunities of roads not taken these essays by nineteen leading geologists ecologists and historians instead consider the changing dynamics both of the city and of nature. In the nineteenth century for example density was considered an evil and reformers struggled mightily to move the working poor out to areas where better sanitation and flowers and parks made life seem worth the living. We now call that vision sprawl and we struggle just as much to bring middle class people back into the core of American cities. There's nothing natural or inevitable about such turns of events. It's only by paying very close attention to the ways metropolitan nature has been constructed and construed that meaningful lessons can be drawn. History matters. So here are the plants and animals of the Los Angeles basin its rivers and watersheds. Here are the landscapes of fact and fantasy the historical actors events and circumstances that have proved transformative over and over again. The result is a nuanced and rich portrait of Los Angeles that will serve planners communities and environmentalists as they look to the past for clues if not blueprints for enhancing the quality and viability of cities.
