

City

(Life, Lights, & Love)

The cars roar by in endless streams,
A modern jungle's nightly themes.
Skyscrapers kiss the evening sky,
Where neon dreams are hung up high.

The people rush in hurried beats,
On crowded trams and busy streets.
A blend of wills, a clash of sights,
In days of sun and neon nights.

A city's pulse in every vein,
Each whisper, shout, and distant train.
A symphony in steel and stone,
Where every soul may find its tone.

Burning City Jed Rasula, Tim Conley, 2012 Poetry BURNING CITY acts as a multisensory Baedeker to the many incarnations of international modernism from 1910-1939. Inspired by the abandoned plans of the early avant garde poet Yvan Goll to write a history of modernity through the poetry of that era, scholars Jed Rasula and Tim Conley have carried out Goll's project scouring the small journals and magazines of the period for both lost and seminal texts. BURNING CITY is organized not just according to the cities which inspired the texts: Paris, Cracow, Buenos Aires, and so on, but according to such icons of the modern urban experience as Cieland Music Hall, Electric Man. BURNING CITY makes a new contribution to anthologies of both poetry and modernism by its thematic focus on city life, by its inclusion of poets from languages and nationalities seldom represented in standard US surveys, and by its preservation of the typographic versatility of the this feverishly innovating period. The fascination of cities wrote Langston Hughes seizes me burning like a fever in the blood. BURNING CITY enacts that passion with astonishing skill and learning. Whatever else Modernism was or was not, its geography was that of the New Urbanism from Paris and Berlin to Sao Paulo and Shanghai, from such icons as the Eiffel Tower and the Empire State Building to Moscow's Nikitin Circus. It is the City in all its contradictions, its splendors and miseries that was to become the laboratory of modernism, still dominating our dreams and nightmares a century after the fact. Truly global in its reach yet local in its exacting particularities, BURNING CITY breaks down the old familiarisms and genre divisions, introducing us to writings we've never seen before, printed side by side with our favorite poems by Huidobro and Musil, Mayakovsky and Mina Loy. In a nutshell, the map of modernism will never be the same. Marjorie Perloff William Carlos Williams's Paterson Margaret Glynne Lloyd, 1980. Offers a general study of Williams's major work with particular emphasis placed on the structure of the poem. Deals specifically with William's concept of the city and also evaluates the poem in terms of epic tradition. Difference and Community, 2022-03-07. This volume brings together essays which suggest that the relationship between Canada and Europe is a two-way process, as historically the traffic between them has been either may have something to offer the other. Europe too acknowledges situations today in which difference and community are hard terms to reconcile. Difference refers to gender, sexuality, race, nationality, or language. Community is the collective understanding which must continually be renegotiated and reconstructed among these factors. The Canadian-European connection is one in which it seems especially appropriate to explore such circumstances. The topics covered include pioneer women's writing, transcultural women's fiction, canonical taxonomy of the contemporary novel, the city poem in Confederate Canada, poetry of the Great War, various ethno-cultural perspectives, Jewish, South Asian, Italian, Native reappropriations, Quebec cinema, literature and the media, and small press publishing. Some of the authors treated: Sandra Birdsell, Nicole Brossard, Jack Hodgins, Henry Kreis, Robert Kroetsch, Janice Kulyk Keefer, Archibald Lampman, Malcolm Lowry, Lesley Lum.
