mediation suffice to settle civil wars successfully? Patrick Wagner, 2004-02-26 Essay from the year 2003 in the subject Politics Topic Peace and Conflict Security grade 2 B University of Kent Brussels School of International Studies course Negotiation and Mediation language English abstract Since the end of the Cold War the nature and perception of international conflict has changed significantly Instead of inter state war intra state conflicts now constitute the majority of current conflicts Global nuclear warfare is no longer the primary international security concern It has been displaced by excessively violent and destructive intra state or internal conflicts And these conflicts which would have been regarded as purely internal matters during the Cold War are now seen as being of international concern Civil wars which are normally regionalised are often nevertheless deemed to be a threat to international peace and security As a result the international community has become more and more involved in the resolution of civil wars often by mediating peace negotiations between the parties involved However the resolution of civil war is one the most challenging tasks in Conflict Resolution Only a minority of negotiations result in a lasting peace and only under exceptional circumstances is this achieved without a third party mediating the negotiations Although many of the attempts to settle civil wars by mediation have failed it is clear that the involvement of international mediators makes civil war negotiations more likely to succeed and in some cases indeed helps to find long term solutions to the conflict

Internal Conflict and the International Community Roderic Alley,2017-07-05 In this insightful book Roderic Alley debates whether conflict within states has emerged as the Achilles Heel of the international community Utilizing a variety of case materials the book finds internal conflict posing serious potentially debilitating challenges to existing institutional policy and analytical practices in international relations It will greatly interest senior undergraduates post graduates and scholars of international relations comparative politics development studies international law and security and defence studies history The Prevention and Intervention of Genocide Samuel Totten, 2017-09-08 Over the last twenty years the world has witnessed four major genocides There was the genocide in Iraq 1988 in Rwanda 1994 in Srebrenica 1995 and in Darfur 2003 and continuing Most observers agree there is an urgent need to assess the international community's efforts to prevent genocide and to intervene once a genocide is under way in an effective and timely manner This volume the latest in a widely respected series on the subject of genocide provides an overview of a host of issues germane to this task The book begins with a cogent discussion of the issues of prevention and intervention during the Cold War years The second chapter discusses the abject failures and moderate though in some cases highly controversial successes at prevention and intervention carried out in the 1990s and early 2000s Further chapters examine latest efforts to develop an effective genocide early warning system and examine the complexity of and barriers to prevention The pros and cons of sanctions and the problems of enforcement and evaluation their effectiveness are then discussed Conflicts between state sovereignty and the protection of threatened populations are examined both in historical context and by incorporating the latest thinking Later chapters treat the issue of intervention why and how it has met with only limited success Concentrating on Rwanda and Srebrenica chapter 8 discusses various peace operations that were abject failures and those that were moderately successful The concept of an anti genocide regime is examined in terms of progress in developing such a regime as well as what the international community must do in order to implement it Chapters discuss key issues related to post genocidal periods those that need to be addressed in order to establish stability in a wounded land and populace as well as to prevent future genocides The final chapter asks whether bringing perpetrators to justice has any impact in breaking impunity ensuring deterrence and bringing about reconciliation The contributors to the volume are all noted scholars some of whom specialize in the study of genocide and others who specialize in such areas as early warning peacekeeping and sanctions Piracy and Maritime Terrorism

Silvia Ciotti Galletti, 2012 For much of history pirates and buccaneers constituted one of the most serious threats to maritime activities all over the world More recently apart from adventure stories and swashbuckling films maritime piracy was largely thought of as a thing of the past This began to change in 1994 when an article in the Far Eastern Economic Review drew public attention to the renaissance of a phenomenon piracy was back and it was becoming increasingly violent involving huge ships in international waters This book is based on the proceedings of the NATO Advanced Research Workshop held in 2009 in Lisbon Portugal Its main purpose was to promote dialogue on the phenomenon of maritime piracy between international policymakers law enforcement officers port authorities and other professionals and to provide a response to the need for research and analysis at an international level on maritime piracy and its connection to terrorism The book does not simply report on the proceedings of the workshop but also includes some new topics not covered by the ARW and is organized in three sections new methodological approaches to maritime threats new threats and new challenges in piracy and maritime terrorism and lastly some selected case studies different threats different solutions The book offers qualified ideas opinions and talking points to the international practitioner community will foster debate and help law enforcement agencies and policymakers to face the new world wide maritime threats of piracy and terrorism Conflict Resolution and Status

Céline Francis,2011 The dispute between Georgia and Abkhazia is not a conflict of equals In international conflicts adversaries may differ de facto on the ground in terms of population territory and capability among other things As internationally recognized states however they have equal de jure status and fears that inviting the other side to the negotiating table might be construed as recognition for example rarely intrude The question of status does pose problems however when a conflict is being fought between a recognized state and an unrecognized entity and these problems may contribute to increase the intractability of such conflicts This study explores how and to what extent the difference in status between a sovereign state and an unrecognized entity hinders conflict resolution activities Based on intensive fieldwork and unedited negotiation material the book provides an in depth analysis of the negotiations informal dialogues and grassroots activities that took place in Abkhazia and Georgia between 1989 and 2008 Building Sustainable Peace Tom Keating,W. Andy Knight,2012-07-02 As the world turns its attention to the reconstruction of Afghanistan and Iraq following recent conflicts in these countries the issue of post conflict peacebuilding takes centre stage This collection presents a timely and original overview of the field of peace studies and offers fresh analytical tools which promote a critical reconceptualization of peace and conflict while also making specific reference to peacebuilding strategies employed in recent international conflicts
