A World in Discourse Matthew Izor, Sarah A. Mattice, 2015-10-28. Comparative philosophy refines the inter cultural and inter regional development of philosophical thought that is imperative for a globalizing world. The influence of comparative philosophy can be seen in the growing number of departments that include one or more comparative specialists in their ranks and this is no longer only a trend in philosophy. Playing no small part in this growth is the fact that training in comparative thought provides one with a methodological backdrop against which rapidly diversifying sets of topics are being addressed from a broad range of perspectives. This volume illustrates precisely that trend by gathering together original work first presented at the Uehiro Graduate Philosophy Conference an annual conference held in the spring at the University of Hawai'i at Mānoa. The campus that has been the epicenter of comparative philosophy has through this conference become a meeting place for new philosophical talent. Organized by the graduate students of UH Mānoa the conference routinely attracts presenters from Asia Europe and North America and has featured keynote speakers hailing from universities in Japan China and the US. This volume publishes for the first time the standout papers from the 2013 meeting of the conference the theme of which was Convergence and Alterity. Presenters were asked to submit their finest work that demonstrated the far reaching nature of comparative thought. The result is a collection of novel voices emerging within the field. As can be seen in the uniqueness and vigor with which they approach the discipline these writers demonstrate the ever enlarging boundaries of comparative analysis. The volume includes papers covering figures such as Kant Plato Dewey and Merleau Ponty in the Western tradition and Miki Kiyoshi Zhuangzi and Confucius in the Eastern traditions. From boredom and cynicism to imagination and feminism the topics treated are also of much interest to contemporary research. Throughout its pages the reader will find not only a resurgence of the comparative methodology but also a detailed analysis of both fresh ideas and classical texts.

After the Imperial Turn Antoinette Burton, 2003-05-29. Essays in this collection assess the nation as a subject of disciplinary inquiry considering both its enduring relevance and its inadequacy as an analytical category for studying history literature and culture.

buildings works of art and great individuals that make up our civilisation The author takes us from Iona in the ninth century to France in the twelfth from Florence to Urbino from Germany to Rome England Holland and America Against these historical backgrounds he sketches an extraordinary cast of characters the men and women who gave new energy to civilisation and expanded our understanding of the world and of ourselves He also highlights the works of genius they produced in architecture sculpture and painting in philosophy poetry and music and in science and engineering from Raphael's School of Athens to the bridges of Brunel

A Landscape of Architecture, History and Fiction Jonathan Hill, 2015-12-22 Architecture can be analogous to a history a fiction and a landscape We expect a history or a novel to be written in words but they can also be cast in concrete or seeded in soil The catalyst to this tradition was the simultaneous and interdependent emergence in the eighteenth century of new art forms the picturesque landscape the analytical history and the English novel Each of them instigated a creative and questioning response to empiricism's detailed investigation of subjective experience and the natural world and together they stimulated a design practice and lyrical environmentalism that profoundly influenced subsequent centuries Associating the changing natural world with journeys in self understanding and the design process with a visual and spatial autobiography this book describes journeys between London and the North Sea in successive centuries analysing an enduring and evolving tradition from the picturesque and romanticism to modernism Creative architects have often looked to the past to understand the present and imagine the future Twenty first century architects need to appreciate the shock of the old as well as the shock of the new

Moral Imagination David Bromwich, 2014-03-23 Compelling essays from one of today's most esteemed cultural critics Spanning many historical and literary contexts Moral Imagination brings together a dozen recent essays by one of America's premier cultural critics David Bromwich explores the importance of imagination and sympathy to suggest how these faculties may illuminate the motives of human action and the reality of justice These wide ranging essays address thinkers and topics from Gandhi and Martin Luther King on nonviolent resistance to the dangers of identity politics to the psychology of the heroes of classic American literature Bromwich demonstrates that moral imagination allows us to judge the right and wrong of actions apart from any benefit to ourselves and he argues that this ability is an innate individual strength rather than a socially conditioned habit Political topics addressed here include Edmund Burke and Richard Price s efforts to define patriotism in the first year of the French Revolution Abraham Lincoln s principled work of persuasion against slavery in the 1850s the erosion of privacy in America under the influence of social media and the use of euphemism to shade and anesthetize reactions to the global war on terror Throughout Bromwich considers the relationship between language and power and the insights language may offer into the corruptions of power Moral Imagination captures the singular voice of one of the most forceful thinkers working in America today Humanities for Older Adults ,1988 The CUL Weekly Gazette Cornell University.
