Jews during World War II trends in antisemitism and tolerance and global climate change as a threat to largely coastal Jewish communities They highlight what makes insecurity different in the 21st century and why a paradigm shift in policy is needed This title is intended both for a general audience and advanced undergraduate and graduate students interested in Jewish history urban history and international relations China's Environmental Governing and Ecological Civilization Jiahua Pan, 2015-11-30 This book looks into the increasing conflict between the demand of economic growth and the already fragile ecological system condition in China The prolonged urbanization process has escalated the erosion of natural environments and is increasing energy consumption China's role as a world plant is also demanding more and more resource supply as well as energy consumption This book argues that to correctly respond to these emerging issues apart from upgrading industry and improves environmental protection techniques China needs to establish an ecological civilization that provides an ideological basis for the construction of a green low carbon model of economic growth Thesaurus of ERIC Descriptors

Phillips, 2012-03-29 Bringing together scholars from a diverse range of disciplines The City as Target provides a sustained and critical response to the relationship between the concept of targeting in its many forms and notions of understanding imagining and shaping the urban Among the many spatial and graphic terms used to describe cities in urban studies the word target is rarely encountered Though equally spatial it differs from these others by implying some motive force and more than that a force with some intentionality To target is to aim to project and ultimately to impact It suggests a space of violence or at least action or movement resulting in displacement which most other terms do not In that sense it is useful underused and perhaps revelatory Rather than approach the city as simply a site of growth processes and developments the contributors to this volume treat it as the recipient of attentions The work draws on a wide variety of geographical sites and historic monuments in order to explore this concept examining and challenging current urban theories It seeks to highlight both the power of The Global City and the current vulnerability and fragility of urban culture exploring the city as a recipient and a culprit in relation to issues including terrorism and urban warfare the latest cyclical failure of global financial markets and the relatively new spectre of environmental unsustainability Offering a unique and relevant contribution to the literature this work will be of great interest to scholars of urban theory international relations postcolonial politics and military studies

City, Citizen, Citizenship, 400-1500 Els Rose, Robert Flierman, Merel de Bruin-van de Beek, 2024-04-26 This open access book explores how medieval societies conversed about the city and citizen in texts visual imagery and material culture It adopts a long term interdisciplinary and cross cultural perspective bringing together contributions on the early high and later Middle Ages covering both the medieval East and West and representing a wide variety of disciplinary angles and sources The volume is first and foremost about medieval perceptions and their articulation in text image and material form The principal focus is not on cities or citizenship per se but on those who used such concepts wrote about them and visualized and depicted them At the same time the book seeks to address why the city remained such a salient concept also in non urban contexts the periphery the desert the monastery and how medieval thinking on the ideal city and civic community could involve denunciation of the earthly city and its institutional trappings It thus pushes scholarly boundaries but also seeks to escape deeply entrenched notions of citizenship as either a form of political participation or legal status

Civilizations Felipe Fernandez-Armesto, 2001-09-14 In Civilizations Felipe Fernandez Armesto once again proves himself a brilliantly original historian capable of large minded and comprehensive works here he redefines the subject that has fascinated historians from Thucydides to Gibbon to Spengler to

Fernand Braudel the nature of civilization To Fernandez Armesto a civilization is civilized in direct proportion to its distance its difference from the unmodified natural environment by its taming and warping of climate geography and ecology The same impersonal forces that put an ocean between Africa and India a river delta in Mesopotamia or a 2 000 mile long mountain range in South America have created the mold from which humanity has fashioned its own wildly differing cultures In a grand tradition that is certain to evoke comparisons to the great historical taxonomies each chapter of Civilizations connects the world of the ecologist and geographer to a panorama of cultural history In Civilizations the medieval poem Sir Gawain and the Green Knight is not merely a Christian allegory but a testament to the thousand year long deforestation of the trees that once covered 90 percent of the European mainland The Indian Ocean has served as the world's greatest trading highway for millennia not merely because of cultural imperatives but because the regular monsoon winds blow one way in the summer and the other in the winter In the words of the author Unlike previous attempts to write the comparative history of civilizations it is arranged environment by environment rather than period by period or society by society Thus seventeen distinct habitats serve as jumping off points for a series of brilliant set piece comparisons thus tundra civilizations from Ice Age Europe are linked with the Inuit of the Pacific Northwest and the Mississippi mound builders and the deforesters of eleventh century Europe are both understood as civilizations built on woodlands Here of course are the familiar riverine civilizations of Mesopotamia and China of the Indus and the Nile but also highland civilizations from the Inca to New Guinea island cultures from Minoan Crete to Polynesia to Renaissance Venice maritime civilizations of the Indian Ocean and South China Sea even the Bushmen of Southern Africa are seen through a lens provided by the desert civilizations of Chaco Canyon More here are fascinating stories brilliantly told of the voyages of Chinese admiral Chen Ho and Portuguese commodore Vasco da Gama of the Great Khan and the Great Zimbabwe Here are Hesiod's tract on maritime trade in the early Aegean and the most up to date genetics of seed crops Erudite wide ranging a work of dazzling scholarship written with extraordinary flair Civilizations is a remarkable achievement a tour de force by a brilliant scholar Beyond Civilization to Post-civilization Peter Baofu, 2006 Original Scholarly Monograph The Shaping of Western Civilization Michael Burger, 2013-01-01 Michael Burger's goal in this inexpensive overview is to provide a brief historical narrative of Western civilization Not only does its length and price separate this text from the competition but its no frills uncluttered format and well written one authored approach make it a valuable asset for every history student The Shaping of Western Civilization begins with the ancient Near East and ends with globalization Unlike other textbooks that pile on dates and facts Shaping is a more coherent and interpretive presentation Burger's skills as writer and synthesizer will enable students to obtain the background required to ask meaningful questions of primary sources In addition to suggestions for further reading this overview includes over 50 images and 22 maps *NEP History Of World Civilization B.
