City Builder:

Building Cities that Work Edmund P. Fowler, 1993 Since 1945 North Americans have spent hundreds of billions of dollars on urban development literally transforming the landscape of the continent This development has been disastrous Edmund Fowler maintains because it is inordinately expensive destructive of the environment and disruptive of healthy social life and authentic politics Revealing the connections between our basic cultural beliefs and why we build the way we do he stresses that to build cities that work we must become aware of how our personal choices contribute to the form of the built environment City-Building Process Roger D. Simon, 1996 Revised Transactions 68 5 1978 Brand-Driven City

Building and the Virtualizing of Space Alexander Gutzmer, 2014-04-24 This book is an investigation of the cultural phenomenon of branding and its transformational effects on the contemporary spatial and urban reality It develops a novel understanding of the rationale behind the construction of large scale architectural complexes that relate to corporate brands and of its tremendous cultural effects The author suggests that what we see today is the creation of global mass ornaments of a thorough ornamentalization of the entire globe The origins of this are discussed with regard to examples of corporate brand building from Europe and China Autostadt Wolfsburg BMW Welt Munich and Anting New Town Additional cases are several simulated spaces in Berlin and the space branding activities of companies like Apple or Prada Theoretically the author develops an innovative poststructuralist framework combining ideas from Gilles Deleuze with the space philosophy of Peter Sloterdijk He analyzes how the corporate redefinition of space makes the city enter into a mode of virtual urbanity This idea leads to a notion of a global urban and ultimately the global mass ornament This concept of a global mass ornament is developed here with reference to Sloterdijk's concept of a world of spheres The latter is used to understand the new mode of spatiality of mediatized spaces The book makes the point that our world is involved in a process of mass ornamentalization that has only just begun The concept of the global mass ornament is the first to come to grips with a culture in which branding is effectively changing the physiognomy of the earth The global mass ornament is a banner for a cultural transformation that employs architecture sign theory and mechanisms borrowed from traditional advertising and from social media as well as social processes and that we have yet to properly understand This book is a significant step forward in this respect

City Building on the Eastern Frontier Diane Shaw, 2020-03-03 America's westward expansion involved more than pushing the frontier across the Mississippi toward the Pacific it also consisted of urbanizing undeveloped regions of the colonial states In 1810 New York's future governor DeWitt Clinton marveled that the rage for erecting villages is a perfect mania The development of Rochester and Syracuse illuminates the national experience of internal economic and cultural colonization during the first half of the nineteenth century Architectural historian Diane Shaw examines the ways in which these new cities were shaped by a variety of constituents founders merchants politicians and settlers as opportunities to extend the commercial and social benefits of the market economy and a merchant culture to America's interior At the same time she analyzes how these priorities resulted in a new approach to urban planning According to Shaw city founders and residents deliberately arranged urban space into three segmented districts commercial industrial and civic to promote a self fulfilling vision of a profitable and urbane city Shaw uncovers a distinctly new model of urbanization that challenges previous paradigms of the physical and social construction of nineteenth century cities Within two generations the new cities of Rochester and Syracuse were sorted at multiple scales including not only the functional definition of districts but also the refinement of building types and styles the stratification of building interiors by floor and even the coding of public space by class gender and race Shaw s groundbreaking model of early nineteenth century urban design and spatial culture is a major contribution to the interdisciplinary study of the American city American Cities Neil L. Gonzales, 2010-01-01 Nearly all scholars divide Genesis into primeval and patriarchal history though they debate the precise point of division One reason advanced to justify the division is a thematic shift In primeval history the narrator focuses on the origin and spread of sin as well as God's consequent curse and judgment on humanity In patriarchal history however the spread of sin theme falls off the radar of most scholars But these analyses of the primeval and patriarchal narratives are simplistic and inaccurate In fact the theme of human sin and the divine curse not only serve as the main themes of the Fall narrative but they also continue to function as major themes in both the primeval and patriarchal narratives that follow More particularly human sin appears to increase at both individual and societal levels Moreover just as the primordial sin threatened to derail the advance of God's kingdom and fulfillment of the creation mandate so the spread of human sin in postlapsarian history threatens to thwart God's redemptive plan which consists in the restoration of his original creational intentions for divine and human eschatological fullness This proves true even in the patriarchal narratives where the sins of God's chosen often threaten the very promise intended for their ultimate good These facts which the author attempts to demonstrate in the monograph not only have important ramifications for the unity of the Genesis corpus but they also have important implications for the doctrines of sin justification and sanctification Building Construction, 1947 Some issues include the annual summary
