Keller, Christian R. Weisser, 2007-07-05 The Locations of Composition examines how spaces places and locations define problematize and shape composition studies From a wide variety of perspectives including critical theory rhetoric cultural geography genre theory postcolonial studies and media studies the contributors explore the disciplinary boundaries and authority of composition studies how teachers of writing can engage students in more place centered pedagogies and how compositionists can sort through the often hidden and intricate relationships between and among composition s places The book reveals the complex ways that places are central to the field s history identity and ability to move and change Community Literacy and the Rhetoric of Local Publics Elenore Long, 2008-03-22 Offering a comparative analysis of community literacy studies Community Literacy and the Rhetoric of Local Publics traces common values in diverse accounts of ordinary people going public Elenore Long offers a five point theoretical framework Used to review major community literacy projects that have emerged in recent years this local public framework uncovers profound differences with significant consequence within five formative perspectives 1 the guiding metaphor behind such projects 2 the context that defines a local public shaping what is an effective even possible performance 3 the tenor and affective register of the discourse 4 the literate practices that shape the discourse and most significantly 5 the nature of rhetorical invention or the generative process by which people in these accounts respond to exigencies such as getting around gatekeepers affirming identities and speaking out with others across difference Rhetoric and the Global Turn in Higher Education Christopher Minnix, 2018-03-09 This book studies the role of rhetoric in the expansive movement for global higher education in U S colleges and universities Drawing on an analysis of how discourses of security economy and ethics shape the rhetoric of global higher education as well as that of its populist and nationalist critics the author argues for an understanding of global higher education as a site of rhetorical conflict over visions of students as citizens In doing so the work advances the project of transnational rhetorical education a theoretical and pedagogical project that can foster forms of rhetorical inquiry performance and ethics that equip students to pursue transnational forms of civic engagement belonging

Feldman, 2009-01-01 In Making Writing Matter Ann M. Feldman explores how changing scholarship at engaged metropolitan universities offers an opportunity to redesign first year writing classes in ways that make students better writers An engaged university commits to a relationship with its surrounding metropolitan area with faculty members undertaking collaborative research with community partners The more vibrant participatory role of an engaged university allows students to link their academic studies to important public issues and gain real world writing experience such as writing press releases and letters to organizations This newly focused and contextualized research and scholarship at engaged universities shows students how discourse and writing matter in new ways Basic Writing George Otte, Rebecca Williams Mlynarczyk, 2010-03-15 Framed by historic developments from the Open Admissions movement of the 1960s and 1970s to the attacks on remediation that intensified in the 1990s and beyond Basic Writing traces the arc of these large social and cultural forces as they have shaped and reshaped the field

Distant Publics Jennifer Rice, 2012-08-19 Urban sprawl is omnipresent in America and has left many citizens questioning their ability to stop it In Distant Publics Jenny Rice examines patterns of public discourse that have evolved in response to development in urban and suburban environments Centering her study on Austin Texas Rice finds a city that has simultaneously celebrated and despised development Rice outlines three distinct ways that the rhetoric of publics counteracts development through injury claims memory claims and equivalence claims In injury claims rhetors frame themselves as victims in a dispute Memory claims allow rhetors to anchor themselves to an older deliberative space rather than to a newly evolving one Equivalence claims see the benefits on both sides of an issue and here rhetors effectively become nonactors Rice provides case studies of development disputes that place the reader in the middle of real life controversies and evidence her theories of claims based public rhetorics She finds that these methods comprise the most common though not exclusive vernacular surrounding development and shows how each is often counterproductive to its own goals Rice further demonstrates that these claims create a particular role or public subjectivity grounded in one's own feelings which serves to distance publics from each other and the issues at hand Rice argues that rhetoricians have a duty to transform current patterns of public development discourse so that all individuals may engage in matters of crisis She articulates its sustainability as both a goal and future disciplinary challenge of rhetorical studies and offers tools and methodologies toward that end

Reclaiming the Rural Kim Donehower, Charlotte Hogg, Eileen E Schell, 2012 Reclaiming the Rural moves beyond typical arguments for the preservation abandonment or modernization of rural communities analyzing how communities in the United States Canada and Mexico sustain themselves economically environmentally intellectually and politically through literate action

Composing Other Spaces Douglas Reichert Powell, John Paul Tassoni, 2009 From publisher's description These essays ask how place and space shape the conflicts challenges and opportunities of writing instruction What new tactics for writing and the teaching of writing are required to adequately account for and engage with the complexities of composition's spaces and places

Content Management George Pullman, Gu Baotung, 2017-03-02 This collection of articles is the first attempt by academics and professional writers to delve into the world of content management systems The knowledge economy's greatest asset and primary problem is information management finding it validating it re purposing it keeping it current and keeping it safe In the last few years content management software has become as common as word processing software was five years ago But unlike word processors which are designed for single authorization and local storage content management systems are designed to accommodate large scale information production with many authors providing many different pieces of information kept in a web accessible database any piece of which might find its way into electronic documents that the author doesn't even know exist These software systems are complex to say the least and their impact on the field of writing will be immense     Handbook of Research on Teaching Literacy Through the Communicative and Visual Arts, Volume II James Flood, Shirley Brice Heath, Diane Lapp, 2015-04-22 The Handbook of Research on Teaching Literacy Through the Communicative and Visual Arts Volume II brings together state of the art research and practice on the evolving view of literacy as encompassing not only reading writing speaking and listening but also the multiple ways through which learners gain access to knowledge and skills It forefronts as central to literacy education the visual communicative and performative arts and the extent to which all of the technologies that have vastly expanded the meanings and uses of literacy originate and evolve through the skills and interests of the young A project of the International Reading Association published and distributed by Routledge Taylor Francis Visit <http://www.reading.org> for more information about International Reading Association books membership and other services     Contest(ed) Writing Mary Lamb, 2013-01-14 This collection is about writing contests a vibrant rhetorical practice traceable to rhetorical performances in ancient Greece In their discussion of contests cultural work the scholars who have contributed to this collection uncover important questions about our practices For example educational contests as epideictic rhetoric do indeed celebrate writing but does this celebration merely relieve educators of the responsibility of finding ways for all writers to succeed Contests designed to reward single winners and singly authored works admirably celebrate hard work but do they over emphasize exceptional individual achievement over shared goals and communal reward for success Taking a cultural rhetorical approach to contests each chapter demonstrates the cultural work the contests accomplish The essays in Part I examine contests and riddles in classical Greek and Roman periods educational contests in eighteenth century Scotland and the Lyceum movement in the Antebellum American South The next set of essays discusses how contests leverage competition and reward in educational settings medieval universities American turn of the century women's colleges twenty first century scholarship essay contests and writing contests for speakers of other languages at the University of Portsmouth The last set of essays examines popular contests including poetry contests in Youth Spoken Word popular American contests designed by marketers and twenty first century podcasting competitions This collection then takes up contests as a cultural marker of our values assumptions and relationships to writing contests and competition

Managing Vulnerability Richard C. Marback, 2012-09-30 In Managing Vulnerability Richard C Marback analyzes the tension surrounding the transition from apartheid to democracy in South Africa through a rhetorical lens Marback studies the heart of South Africa's desire for reconciliation and contends that this goal could be achieved only through the creation of a language of vulnerability in which former enemies become open to the influence of each other to the constraints of their respective circumstances and to the prospects of a shared future Through a series of informative case studies Marback illustrates how the cultivation of openness and the management of vulnerability take shape through the circulation of artifacts symbols and texts that give empowering expression to virtues of connectedness over the temptations of individual autonomy Marback discusses the construction and impact of the narrative tours of Robben Island the silencing of Robert Sobukwe the debates over a proposed Freedom Monument a brief gesture of ubuntu from Pumla Gobodo Madikizela to Eugene de Kock and the transformation of the title character in the film adaptation of the 1980 novel Tsotsi Ultimately Marback contends finding a means to manage vulnerability is both the immediate success of and the ongoing challenge to South African democracy and is indicative of the nature of rhetoric in democracies in general and in contemporary civic life
