City Is:

That City is Mine! Cordula Rooijendijk, 2005 Annotation This thesis is about urban ideal images It is about dreams not fictitious beliefs but dreams that humankind can realize tomorrow It is about images from intellectuals pastry cooks urban planners and firemen About people who deeply care about their cities about their hopes frustrations anger and optimism They describe their ideals in city debates to gain support and try to eliminate those with different urban ideal images They grouse cuddle quarrel adore allies and blacken enemies But are they successful Do people change their urban ideal images because of these discussions Does the local planning council change their plans because they conflict with ideals of citizens The answers can be found in this book This title can be previewed in Google Books <http://books.google.com/books/vid/ISBN9789056293826> The City Is Ours Muna Güvenç, 2024-08-15 The City is Ours accounts how urban politics mediated the rise of Kurdish nationhood and mobilization in Diyarbakır Turkey Muna Güvenç elucidates how urban and architectural forms are not merely the backdrop of the cityscape where political struggles unfold they constitute the very essence of these conflicts Güvenç posits that urban spaces offer wiggle room turning oppression into chances for dissent and resilience and offering opportunities for vulnerable minority groups to create sociopolitical blocs and mobilizations Güvenç takes readers from municipal halls to the streets and illustrates how in the early 2000s pro Kurdish parties harnessed urban planning to resist coercion and foster Kurdish mobilization in Turkey Güvenç challenges readers to rethink urban neoliberalism new forms of nationalisms and mobilizations and the ways they shape cities and politics The City is Ours is a profound awakening an invitation to all architects and urban planners urging them to rise above the confines of their blueprints and embrace the vast tapestry of the politics of space Whose City Is That? Culture, Design, Spectacle and Capital in Istanbul Dilek Özhan Koçak, Orhan Kemal Koçak, 2014-06-26 Whose City is That shows that Istanbul is produced not only by strong and systematic efforts corporate influences and or marketing activities but also by individual contributions and coincidences As such the primary purpose of this book is to find the answer of to whom Istanbul does belong presenting the reader with the richness of human experience and the practice of everyday life The chapters in this book are therefore focused on the physical and economic dimensions as well as the imaginary fictional and hyper real dimensions expressing the concern of bringing the real and imaginary borders of the city together The book provides an understanding that for each inhabitant there is another city another Istanbul Each person living in the city creates or lives in another city which is made of their own personal and particular experiences In addition the Istanbul the authors understand and describe turns into something different moment by moment which cannot be defined or identified because of its very nature as a megacity However its flow is not aimless and non directional and each sign is not causeless or dateless In this context in order to make the possibilities of the city visible the contributors to this volume ask Istanbul whose city is it The title of the book enables different academics to ask the same question using different methodologies and subjects The question Whose City is That and the necessity of studying Istanbul using multidisciplinary perspectives brought many researchers from different fields together because the city is larger than one approach and the constraints of one unique field. Gathering researchers and academics from various disciplines such as communication studies, cultural studies, cinema, media studies, literature, the fine arts, city and regional planning, political science, social and economic geography, anthropology, and architecture enables each to think about the city alone and together so as to create new forms of thought and discourse about Istanbul.

The City Is served Bartholomew! to the American Prison! William Alexander Patterson, 4th, 2010 UC Berkeley English professor Robert Hass, winner the Pulitzer Prize and the National Book Critics Circle Awards, has written that Alex Patterson is a very gifted young writer. The book is about how children in a heavenly state begin to know the earthly world. How much of an illusion are both? How our vital instincts create these illusions. How our subjectivity reigns upon our lives. The book is a remarkable piece of art. Marian Apostol, Professor, Department of Theoretical Physics, Institute of Atomic Physics, Magurele, Bucharest, July 2009. This essay is not a term paper on prisons in America. Rather, it is a document of personal disclosure. Mr. Patterson has engaged passionately with his American tradition. This is to the degree of an exceptionality that is remarkably exposed in this work. He has wrestled so intensely with America that he has taken to exile in Europe. This is the second exceptionality remarked here. I write criticism of academic physics and do it with some flair. But Alex addresses a bigger culture and hierarchy, writing with such passion, poetry, and structure as to make the third exceptionality of this work. I think that this all amounts to a ponderance worthy of your time. Michael J. Burns, October 30, 2009.

The Digital City Germaine R. Halegoua, 2020-01-21. Shows how digital media connects people to their lived environments. Every day, millions of people turn to small handheld screens to search for their destinations and to seek recommendations for places to visit. They may share texts or images of themselves and these places en route or after their journey is complete. We don't consciously reflect on these activities and probably don't associate these practices with constructing a sense of place. Critics have argued that digital media alienates users from space and place, but this book argues that the exact opposite is true: that we habitually use digital technologies to re-embed ourselves within urban environments. The Digital City advocates for the need to rethink our everyday interactions with digital infrastructures, navigation technologies, and social media as we move through the world. Drawing on five case studies from global and mid-sized cities to illustrate the concept of re-placing, Germaine R. Halegoua shows how different populations employ urban broadband networks, social and locative media platforms, digital navigation, smart cities, and creative placemaking initiatives to turn urban spaces into places with deep meanings and emotional attachments. Through timely narratives of everyday urban life, Halegoua argues that people use digital media to create a unique sense of place within rapidly changing urban environments and that a sense of place is integral to understanding contemporary relationships with digital media.

How Smart Is Your City? Maria Isabel Aldinhas Ferreira, 2020-10-20. This book focuses on the potential benefits that the so-called smart technologies have been bringing to the urban reality and to the management and governance of the city simultaneously highlighting the necessity for its responsible and ethically guided deployment respecting essential humanistic values. The urban ecosystem has been in the last decades the locus to where the most advanced forms of technological innovation converge creating intelligent management platforms meant to produce models of energy water consumption mobility transportation waste management and efficient cities. Due to the coincidence of the punctual overlap of its own genesis with the pandemics outbreak the present book came to embody both the initial dream and desire of an intelligent city place of innovation development and equity a dream present in most of the chapters and the fear not just of the pandemics per se but of the consequences that this may have for the character of the intelligent city and for the nature of its relationship with its dwellers that like a mother it is supposed to nurture shelter and protect. Cities and Sustainability S. Mahendra Dev, Sudhakar Yedla, 2015-05-11. The book addresses the sustainability of cities in the context of sustainability science and its application to the city boundary. In doing so it investigates all the components of a city on the basis of sustainability criteria. To achieve sustainability it is essential to adopt an integrated strategy that reflects all sectors within the city boundary and also address the four key normative concepts: the right to develop for all sections, social inclusion, convergence in living standards and shared responsibility and opportunities among sectors and sections. In this book the individual chapters examine the nodes of sustainability of a city and thus essentially present a large canvas wherein all sustainability relevant issues are interwoven. This integrative approach is at the heart of the book and offers an extensive innovative framework for future research on cities and sustainability alike. The book also includes selected case studies that add to the reading and comprehension value of the concepts presented ensuring a blend of theory and practical case studies to help readers better comprehend the principle of sustainability and its application. Ebook: Urban Economics O'SULLIVAN, 2012-01-16. Ebook Urban Economics The City Is the Factory Miriam Greenberg, Penny Lewis, 2017-06-06. Urban public spaces from the streets and squares of Buenos Aires to Zuccotti Park in New York City have become the emblematic sites of contentious politics in the twenty first century. As the contributors to The City Is the Factory argue this resurgent politics of the square is itself part of a broader shift in the primary locations and targets of popular protest from the workplace to the city. This shift is due to an array of intersecting developments: the concentration of people, profit and social inequality in growing urban areas; the attacks on and precarity faced by unions and workers movements; and the sense of possibility and actual leverage afforded by local politics and the tactical use of urban space. Thus the city from the town square to the banlieu is becoming like the factory of old: a site of production and profit making as well as new forms of solidarity, resistance and social reimagining. We see examples of the city as factory in new place based political alliances as workers and the unemployed find common cause with right to the city struggles. Demands for jobs with justice are linked with demands for the urban commons from affordable housing to a healthy environment from immigrant rights to urban citizenship and the right to streets free from both violence and racially biased policing The case studies and essays in The City Is the Factory provide descriptions and analysis of the form substance limits and possibilities of these timely struggles Contributors Melissa Checker Queens College and the Graduate Center of the City University of New York Daniel Aldana Cohen University of Pennsylvania Els de Graauw Baruch College City University of New York Kathleen Dunn Loyola University Chicago Shannon Gleeson Cornell University Miriam Greenberg University of California Santa Cruz Alejandro Grimson Universidad de San Mart n Argentina Andrew Herod University of Georgia Penny Lewis Joseph S Murphy Institute for Worker Education and Labor Studies City University of New York Stephanie Luce Joseph S Murphy Institute for Worker Education and Labor Studies City University of New York Lize Mogel artist and coeditor of An Atlas of Radical Cartography Gretchen Purser Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs Syracuse University

What a City Is For Matt Hern, 2016-09-23 An investigation into gentrification and displacement focusing on the case of Portland Oregon s systematic dispersal of black residents from its Albina neighborhood Portland Oregon is one of the most beautiful livable cities in the United States It has walkable neighborhoods bike lanes low density housing public transportation and significant green space not to mention craft beer bars and locavore food trucks But liberal Portland is also the whitest city in the country This is not circumstance the city has a long history of officially sanctioned racialized displacement that continues today Over the last two and half decades Albina the one major Black neighborhood in Portland has been systematically uprooted by market driven gentrification and city renewal policies African Americans in Portland were first pushed into Albina and then contained there through exclusionary zoning predatory lending and racist real estate practices Since the 1990s they ve been aggressively displaced by rising housing costs developers eager to get rid of low income residents and overt city policies of gentrification Displacement and disposessions are convulsing cities across the globe becoming the dominant urban narratives of our time In What a City Is For Matt Hern uses the case of Albina as well as similar instances in New Orleans and Vancouver to investigate gentrification in the twenty first century In an engaging narrative effortlessly mixing anecdote and theory Hern questions the notions of development private property and ownership Arguing that home ownership drives inequality he wants us to disown ownership How can we reimagine the city as a post ownership post sovereign space Drawing on solidarity economics cooperative movements community land trusts indigenous conceptions of alternative sovereignty the global commons movement and much else Hern suggests repudiating development in favor of an incrementalist non market driven unfolding of the city

Critical Digital Studies Arthur Kroker, Marilouise Kroker, 2013-12-11 Since its initial publication Critical Digital Studies has proven an indispensable guide to understanding digitally mediated culture Bringing together the leading scholars in this growing field internationally renowned scholars

Arthur and Marilouise Kroker present an innovative and interdisciplinary survey of the relationship between humanity and technology. The reader offers a study of our digital future, a means of understanding the world with new analytic tools and means of communication that are defining the twenty-first century. The second edition includes new essays on the impact of social networking technologies and new media. A new section, New Digital Media, presents important new articles on topics including hacktivism in the age of digital power and the relationship between gaming and capitalism. The extraordinary range and depth of the first edition has been maintained in this new edition. Critical Digital Studies will continue to provide the leading edge to readers wanting to understand the complex intersection of digital culture and human knowledge.

Integrity and Conscience Ian Shapiro, Robert Adams, 1998-04 Can individuals believe that they are acting with integrity yet in disobedience to the dictates of their conscience? Can they retain fidelity to their conscience while ignoring a sense of what integrity requires? Integrity and conscience are often thought to be closely related, perhaps even different aspects of a single impulse. This timely book supports a different and more complicated view. Acting with integrity and obeying one's conscience might be mutually reinforcing in some settings, but in others they can live in varying degrees of mutual tension. Bringing together prominent scholars of legal theory and political philosophy, the volume addresses both classic ruminations on integrity and conscience by Plato, Hume, and Kant as well as more contemporary examinations of professional ethics and the complex relations among politics, law, and personal morality. Performability in Internet of Things Fadi

Al-Turjman, 2018-08-22 This book discusses the challenges in the convergence of technologies as the Internet of Things (IoT) evolves. These include sensing, computing, information processing, networking, and controlling intelligent technologies. The contributors first provide a survey of various assessment and evaluation approaches available for successful convergence. They then go on to cover several operational ideas to apply. The contributors then discuss the challenges involved bridging gaps in computation and the communication process, hidden networks, intelligent decision making, human-to-machine perception, and large-scale IoT environments. The contributors aim to provide the reader an overview of trends in IoT in terms of performability and traffic modeling and efforts that can be spent in assessing the graceful degradation in IoT paradigms. Provides a survey of IoT assessment and evaluation approaches. Covers new and innovative operational ideas that apply to the IoT industry and the industries it affects. Includes chapters from researchers and industry leaders in IoT from around the world. Metrospiritual Sean Benesh, 2011-02-24 Metrospiritual: The Geography of Church Planting is about church planting in the city. There is an outpouring of new expressions of church being started throughout metro areas across North America. Where are these new churches being started? Maybe a more subterranean question is: Why? Why are churches being started where they are, and why is there a bias towards one part of the city and an overall neglect of other parts? Metrospiritual explores these questions and more as it builds off of recent research and surveys of hundreds of church planters in seven large cities in the United States and Canada. There is a deeper look at pivotal issues such as gentrification.
