The City of Mexico in the Age of Díaz Michael Johns, 2011-05-18 Mexico City assumed its current character around the turn of the twentieth century during the dictatorship of Porfirio Díaz 1876-1911 In those years wealthy Mexicans moved away from the Zócalo the city's traditional center to western suburbs where they sought to imitate European and American ways of life At the same time poorer Mexicans many of whom were peasants crowded into eastern suburbs that lacked such basic amenities as schools potable water and adequate sewerage These slums looked and felt more like rural villages than city neighborhoods A century and some twenty million more inhabitants later Mexico City retains its divided robust and almost labyrinthine character In this provocative and beautifully written book Michael Johns proposes to fathom the character of Mexico City and through it the Mexican national character that shaped and was shaped by the capital city Drawing on sources from government documents to newspapers to literary works he looks at such things as work taste violence architecture and political power during the formative Díaz era From this portrait of daily life in Mexico City he shows us the qualities that make a Mexican a Mexican and have created a culture in which as the Mexican saying goes everything changes so that everything remains the same The City of Mexico in the Age of Díaz Michael Johns, 1999 Creating Mexican

Consumer Culture in the Age of Porfirio Díaz Steven B. Bunker, 2012-12-15 In Gabriel García Márquez's novel One Hundred Years of Solitude a character articulates the fascination goods technology and modernity held for many Latin Americans in the early twentieth century when he declares that incredible things are happening in this world The modernity he marvels over is the new availability of cheap and useful goods Steven Bunker's study shows how goods and consumption embodied modernity in the time of Porfirio Díaz how they provided proof to Mexicans that incredible things are happening in this world In urban areas and especially Mexico City being a consumer increasingly defined what it meant to be Mexican In an effort to reconstruct everyday life in Porfirian Mexico Bunker surveys the institutions and discourses of consumption and explores how individuals and groups used the goods practices and spaces of urban consumer culture to construct meaning and identities in the rapidly evolving social and physical landscape of the capital city and beyond Through case studies of tobacco marketing department stores advertising shoplifting and a famous jewelry robbery and homicide he provides a colorful walking tour of daily life in Porfirian Mexico City Emphasizing the widespread participation in this consumer culture Bunker's work overturns conventional wisdom that only the middle and upper classes participated in this culture The

Years with Laura Díaz Carlos Fuentes, 2012-08-16 _____ An admirable novel The Times In this portrait of men and women swept along by great events and determined to be on the side of the angels Fuentes has invested the often colourless world of politics with romantic ardour Sunday Telegraph _____ An epic and heartbreaking love story that will leave no one untouched Like Fuentes's masterpiece The Death of Artemio Cruz the action in this novel begins in the state of Veracruz and moves to Mexico City From 1905 to 1978 Fuentes traces the extraordinary Laura Díaz a life filled with a multitude of witty heartbreaking scenes and the sounds colours tastes and scents of Mexico Laura grows into a politically committed artist who is also a wife and mother a lover of great men and a complicated and alluring heroine whose bravery prevails despite her losing a brother son and grandson to the darkest forces of Mexico's turbulent often corrupt politics Hers is a life which has helped to affect the course of history and it is the story of a woman who has loved and understood with unflinching honesty _____ Fuentes's affair with the fickle forces of creativity reaches a rare and poignant intensity a landmark book Scotsman Cinesonidos Jacqueline Avila, 2019 During Mexico's silent 1896-1930 and early sound 1931-52 periods cinema saw the development of five significant genres the prostitute melodrama including the cabaretera subgenre the indigenista film on indigenous themes or topics the cine de a oranza porfiriana films of Porfirian nostalgia the Revolution film and the comedia ranchera ranch comedy In this book author Jacqueline Avila looks at examples from all genres exploring the ways that the popular regional and orchestral music in these films contributed to the creation of tropes and archetypes now central to Mexican cultural nationalism Integrating primary source material including newspaper articles advertisements films with film music studies sound studies and Mexican film and cultural history Avila examines how these tropes and archetypes mirrored changing perceptions of mexicanidad manufactured by the State and popular and transnational culture As she shows several social and political agencies were heavily invested in creating a unified national identity in an attempt to merge the previously fragmented populace as a result of the Revolution The commercial medium of film became an important tool to acquaint a diverse urban audience with the nuances of Mexican national identity and music played an essential and persuasive role in the process In this heterogeneous environment cinema and its music continuously reshaped the contested fluctuating space of Mexican identity functioning both as a sign and symptom of social and political change The City of Mexico in the Age of Díaz Michael Johns, 1997 Mexico City assumed its current character around the turn of the twentieth century during the dictatorship of Porfirio Díaz 1876-1911 In those years wealthy Mexicans moved away from the Zócalo the city's traditional center to western suburbs where they sought to imitate European and American ways of life At the same time poorer Mexicans many of whom were peasants crowded into eastern suburbs that lacked such basic amenities as schools potable water and adequate sewerage These slums looked and felt more like rural villages than city neighborhoods A century and some twenty million more inhabitants later Mexico City retains its divided robust and almost labyrinthine character In this provocative and beautifully written book Michael Johns proposes to fathom the character of Mexico City and through it the Mexican national character that shaped and was shaped by the capital city Drawing on sources from government documents to newspapers to literary works he looks at such things as work taste violence architecture and political power during the formative Díaz era From this portrait of daily life in Mexico City he shows us the qualities that make a Mexican a Mexican and have created a culture in which as the Mexican saying goes everything changes so that everything remains the same A History of Modern Latin America Teresa A.

Fowler,1998-11-19 This book is a study of the political development of the many factions that surfaced in Mexico from the achievement of independence in 1821 to General Antonio López de Santa Anna s last government in 1853 55 Paying particular attention to the writings of the main thinkers of the period and the ways in which they inspired or were betrayed by their respective factions this volume concentrates on the evolution of the different factions traditionalists moderates radicals and santanistas who sustained their beliefs at one point or another It follows a chronological approach and puts significant emphasis to the way the hopes of the 1820s degenerated into the despair of the 1840s and how these in turn affected the evolution of the different factions political proposals Political proposals and ideologies were important in independent Mexico it was an age of proposals Various constitutional projects were proposed discussed attempted or dismissed This study offers a comprehensive analysis of how the generalized liberal principles of early republican Mexico became fractured into numerous conflicting political proposals and movements In response to the ever changing political landscape of the new nation the emergent Mexican political class was prevented from achieving the ever elusive constitutional order unity progress and stability all dreamed of experiencing when General Agustín de Iturbide marched into Mexico City on September 27 1821 Appendices with a glossary chronologies and description of major personalities are included     From Liberal to Revolutionary Oaxaca Francie R.
