Scientific and Technical Aerospace Reports, 1995-08 The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 1991 Military, State, and Society in Israel Dāniyyāl Mamān, Eyal Ben-Ari, Zeev Rosenhek, There have been many books on the place of war security or military service in Israeli society The Military State and Society in Israel makes contributions to the debate theoretical empirical and polemical that are related to the Israeli case and to wider debates about the place of war and the military in contemporary industrialized societies The Israeli case is important in the development of more macro approaches to the study of things military as war has played a central role in Israel s history and continues to do so The book encapsulates in a very explicit manner tensions in the relationships between the military state and society and stands at the core of contemporary debates between two fundamental approaches to the study of the relations between the military society and the state the armed forces and society school and the state making and war perspective Contemporary Israel is the site of debates about many of the fundamental assumptions that have undergirded the Jewish nation state the ethnic character of nationhood and statehood the role of the Jewish diaspora vis vis Israel the legitimacy of Jewish ethnic pluralism the meaning of the Holocaust privatization of social life and the spread of consumerism and weakening of the centralized state as the agent of social transformation affecting housing language health technology production dress and child rearing One important consequence of these internal conflicts and struggles has been a significant erosion in the almost sacred status once enjoyed by state institutions and especially the military among the majority of Jewish population Theoretical and Comparative Perspectives situates Israel in its wider theoretical and comparative context and shows how the study of Israel contributes to the theoretical understanding of contemporary changes in civil military relations The Politics of Civil Military Relations concentrates on current changes in Israeli politics the character of the conflict with the Palestinians and the place of military in society The State and War Making Creating Citizens Soldiers and Men and Women indicates how war and the military are not only instruments for state making but are also important factors in the formation of individual identities The Notion of National Security Institutions and Concepts raises the basic question of whether the institutional mechanisms and the strategic conceptions crystallized during the first 50 years of Israel s existence are still relevant in a changing post cold war world The Armed Forces as Organization Continuity and Change focuses on the lines of continuity and trends of change in several aspects of the Israeli Defense Forces internal organizational structure Studies based on Israeli cases data and scholarship have been central to the development of expertise in such fields as applied psychology and psychotherapy This volume contributes to these areas of study and will be of central importance to professionals interested in civil military

Managing change in the Defence workforce Great Britain: National Audit Office, 2012-02-09 The Department s approach to reducing its headcount has been largely in accordance with good practice and up to now it has acted in a way that is consistent with value for money However the urgent need for the Department to cut costs means it is having to cut its headcount in advance of planning in detail how it will operate in the future thereby risking making current skills shortages worse The Department plans to cut its civilian workforce by 29 000 and its armed forces by 25 000 To meet these targets the MOD has started a redundancy programme and a Voluntary Early Release Scheme both of which run in several tranches The most recent estimates by the Department are that the process will cost 0.9 billion and produce 4.1 billion in cost reductions just over 3 billion net The potential savings fluctuate with the timing of the redundancy tranches a delay of three months to the second military tranche has reduced savings from this tranche alone by an estimated 100 million to 138 million to 2015 The Department now has to reduce the numbers in the Army by a further 5 000 by 2015 but has not worked out in detail how it will do this Delays to the process erode the level of potential savings as the Department continues to pay salaries benefits and contributions to pensions Without real changes to ways of working cutting headcount is likely to result in the Department s doing less with fewer people or alternatively trying to do the same with greater risk Airman ,1997
