After two volumes mainly introductory, Dr Needham now embarks upon his systematic study of the development of the natural sciences in China. The Sciences of the Earth follow geography and cartography, geology, seismology, and mineralogy. Dr Needham distinguishes parallel traditions of scientific cartography and religious cosmography in East and West, discussing orbocentric wheel maps, the origins of the rectangular grid system, sailing charts, and relief maps. Chinese survey methods and the impact of Renaissance cartography on the East. Finally, and here Dr Needham's work has no Western predecessors, there are full accounts of the Chinese contribution to geology and mineralogy. Chinese Civilization in the Making, 1766-221 BC Jun Li, 2016-07-27. This book provides a fresh interpretation of how Chinese civilization was created and transformed in the process of its early formation, 1766-221 BC. It describes the principal features of that civilization, which had a profound impact on the later development of Chinese history. In particular, it discusses in detail the main characteristics of the social and political organizations of that period and argues that, contrary to the traditional interpretation, economic development in ancient China had its own dynamism. Ancient Civilization: China Valerie Bodden, 2015-01-27. From the lowliest slave to the most powerful ruler, every civilization has been built and undone by different classes of people. This new series takes an anthropologist's view of five famous Ancient Civilizations, noting how the various social groups influenced and interacted with each other and changed the very history of the world. Emphasizing each civilization's legacy and innovations, each title also presents a timeline of major historical events, and engaging facts are highlighted throughout the text. In this title, discover an historical overview of dynastic China from the perspectives of the social classes, from the royals to the peasants, including the Chinese empire's growth and decline. Chinese Civilization Marcel Granet, 1930. China Through The Ages Franz Michael, 2019-03-13. Past studies of China have concentrated on specific events or have related a chronological history of the dynastic periods. These works have included aspects of cultural history but have underemphasized the country's great social, political, and intellectual movements and their ultimate expression in the art and literature of the time. By focusing on such themes,

Professor Michael provides a new framework for understanding the Chinese cultural tradition. The author describes the evolving history of ideas in China from ancient faith in powerful magic to more modern concepts of a logical moral order of the universe and mankind's place in it. He also explores the intellectual ferment following the dawn of the age of reason, the integration of Buddhism into the Confucian social order, and the social transformations accompanying the rise and fall of the centralized state. Throughout, he illustrates how the changing society's beliefs, values, and aesthetic sense were embodied in its art and literature. This portrayal of the Chinese cultural tradition not only puts Chinese history in a new perspective, it also illuminates the process through which China constructed a modern society from a non-Western foundation and serves as an essential tool for understanding modern-day China and its prospects for the future.
