Education in Singapore Rita Elaine Silver, Wendy D. Bokhorst-Heng, 2016-01-21 This book explores Singapore's language education system. Unlike previous volumes which discuss the bilingual requirement for learning, it focuses on Singapore's quadrilingual system, bringing together articles on each of the four languages: English, Mandarin, Malay, and Tamil, as well as articles that examine more than one language. It highlights past successes, current concerns, and future directions for language education. The book focuses on classroom pedagogy in all four official languages, showcasing how languages are taught and learned in Singapore as a basis for better understanding the system from the inside out. The authors present empirical classroom-based studies on language pedagogy in all four languages, as well as updated information on the current socio-political context and how it has influenced attempts at pedagogical innovation. Consideration is given to the dialectical relationship between policy and practice. The chapters also include discussions of pre-school age learning influences of language policy, home literacy practices, and commentaries by international language in education scholars. This approach also provides a basis for international comparison, especially for those who are interested in fostering English proficiency while maintaining one or more national languages. The volume is particularly important in light of the continuing international efforts to integrate English into national educational systems where it is not the dominant language.

Chapters discuss the application of national and international school psychology practices within the Australian educational and psychological structure. The handbook also examines the lack of formal resources specific to Australia's culture and psychology systems with its unique mix of metropolitan cities and the vast geographic landscape that spans regional and remote areas. It offers numerous case studies and innovative school mental health programs, as well as recommendations for professional development and advocacy that are unique to Australian school psychology. Topics featured in this Handbook include: Evidence-based assessment and intervention for dyscalculia and mathematical disabilities; Identification and management of adolescent risk-taking behaviors and addictions; Understanding and responding to crisis and trauma in the school setting; Prevention and intervention for bullying in schools; Class and school-wide approaches to addressing behavioral and academic needs; The role of school psychologists in the digital age; Practical advice for school psychologists facing complex ethical dilemmas.
