

Reading Strategy Goals

Possible goal:	When to choose this goal:
Stop to visualize (picture) what is happening in the story	My book doesn't have many pictures and I want to imagine what is happening in my mind.
Write down a few questions before I start reading and then answer my questions at the end of my reading time	I have a hard time remembering what happens in my story. If I ask questions, it will help me stay focused on finding the answers as I read.
Stop at the end of a chapter, or section, in my story to summarize what is going on.	I get to the end of my chapter or section and can't remember the details of the story.
Go back and reread when I don't understand what is going on in the story	When I get to the end of my reading time, I can't remember what I read.
Learn new and interesting words from the books I read	I keep coming across new and interesting words and I don't know what they mean.
Take a picture walk, or preview the chapter titles before reading	I want to get my mind thinking and predicting about what I will read.
Use word-attack strategies like reread, chunking, using meaning clues, reading on, or connecting to words I already know.	My reading pace is slow because I have to stop to figure out a word often. This make my reading choppy.

conceptualizing teacher beliefs as a complex dynamic and multi faceted system By adopting five rounds of interview and four classroom observations the year long study reveals seven key features of the belief system shared among six participants It calls for the holistic complex and insider view to examine teacher beliefs in relation to the sociocultural and historical contexts where the teachers work and live

Reading as a Philosophical Practice Robert Piercey, 2020-12-15 Reading as a Philosophical Practice asks why reading everyday reading for pleasure matters so profoundly to so many people Its answer is that reading is an implicitly philosophical activity To passionate readers it is a way of working through and taking a stand on certain fundamental questions about who and what we are how we should live and how we relate to other things The book examines the lessons that the activity of reading seems to teach about selfhood morality and ontology and it tries to clarify the sometimes paradoxical claims that serious readers have made about it To do so it proposes an original theoretical framework based on Virginia Woolf's notion of the common reader and Alasdair MacIntyre's conception of practice It also asks whether reading can continue to play this role as paper is replaced by electronic screens
