Gallie,1984-01-26 This book first published in 1983 examines in depth the nature and sources of class radicalism in France and Britain and takes issue with some of the major theories of class consciousness and class action Drawing on data both from detailed case studies and from wider national surveys it shows that the conflict of class interests within capitalist societies can lead to sharply diverging attitudes to class inequality It argues that the explanation of such differences cannot be found in some general law of the evolution of social conflict in capitalist society It must be sought in the profound institutional differences that exist between the two societies In particular the study argues for a reassessment of the importance of the experience of war and of the way in which the business and political elite handled the social crises generated by war in accounting for the long term structural divergence of capitalist societies
