Class Conflict and the Crisis of Feudalism Rodney Hilton, 1985-07-01 The conflict between landlords and peasants over the appropriation of the surplus product of the peasant holding was a prime mover in the evolution of medieval society In this collection of essays Rodney Hilton looks at the economic context within which these conflicts took place He seeks to explain the considerable variations in the size composition and management of landed estates and investigates the nature of medieval urbanisation a consequence of the development of both local commodity production and long distance trade in luxury goods By setting the broader economic context the nature of the peasant and landlord economies and the commercialisation of peasant production Hilton's essays enable a thorough understanding of the relationship between landlords and peasants in medieval society

The Politics of Social Conflict Andy Wood, 1999-09-16 This book provides an alternative approach to the history of social conflict popular politics and plebeian culture in the early modern period Based on a close study of the Peak Country of Derbyshire c 1520 1770 it has implications for understandings of class identity popular culture riot custom and social relations A detailed reconstruction of economic and social change within the region is followed by an in depth examination of the changing cultural meanings of custom gender locality skill literacy orality and magic The local history of social conflict sheds light upon the nature of political engagement and the origins of early capitalism Important insights are offered into early modern social and gender identities civil war allegiances the appeal of radical ideas and the making of the English working class Above all the book challenges the claim that early modern England was a hierarchical pre class society

Agrarian Radicalism in South India Marshall M. Bouton, 2014-07-14 The author finds that agrarian radicalism develops most readily in a way analogous to industrial class struggle through the economic clash of homogeneous and polarized groups within the agrarian sector Originally published in 1985 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 Diggers, Levellers, and Agrarian Capitalism Geoff Kennedy, 2008-01-01 This book situates the development of radical English political thought within the context of the specific nature of agrarian capitalism and the struggles that ensued around the nature of the state during the revolutionary decade of the 1640s In the context of the emerging conceptions of the state and property with attendant notions of accumulation labor and the common good groups such as Levellers and Diggers developed distinctive forms of radical political thought not because they were progressive forward thinkers but because they were the most significant challengers of the newly constituted forms of political and economic power Drawing on recent reexaminations of the nature of agrarian capitalism and modernity in the early modern period Geoff Kennedy argues that any interpretation of the political theory of this period must relate to the changing nature of social property relations and state power The radical nature of early modern English political thought is therefore cast in terms of its oppositional relationship to these novel forms of property and state power rather than being conceived of as a formal break from discursive conventions BOOK JACKET

Ireland P. J. Drudy, 1982 Reflections on the Marxist Theory of History Paul Blackledge, 2006-10-31 This volume offers a defence of the study of history against traditional empiricism and the relativism of postmodern historiography It discusses the relationship between Marx and Engels theory of history their methodology and their politics

The Black Death in Egypt and England Stuart J. Borsch, 2005-07-01 I cannot think of a finer piece of work that I have read in comparative history I suspect this work will quickly become a classic in its field and can serve as a model for the comparative study of the effects of the Black Death in other regions of the world Uli Schamiloglu Chair Central Asian Studies Program University of Wisconsin Madison This book is unique It has no parallel in the field of pre modern Middle Eastern history More broadly it represents the perceptive result of a study conceived on a scale that enables a set of persuasive comparisons between two major states of the medieval Islamic and Christian worlds Nothing like this has been attempted so far No scholar has made such creative use of available primary sources from Egypt Carl F. Petry Professor of History Northwestern University Throughout the fourteenth century AD eighth century H waves of plague swept out of Central Asia and decimated populations from China to Iceland So devastating was the Black Death across the Old World that some historians have compared its effects to those of a nuclear holocaust As countries began to recover from the plague during the following century sharp contrasts arose between the East where societies slumped into long term economic and social decline and the West where technological and social innovation set the stage for Europe's dominance into the twentieth century Why were there such opposite outcomes from the same catastrophic event In contrast to previous studies that have looked to differences between Islam and Christianity for the solution to the puzzle this pioneering work proposes that a country's system of landholding primarily determined how successfully it recovered from the calamity of the Black Death Stuart Borsch compares the specific cases of Egypt and England countries whose economies were based in agriculture and whose pre plague levels of total and agrarian gross domestic product were roughly equivalent Undertaking a thorough analysis of medieval economic data he cogently explains why Egypt's centralized and urban landholding system was unable to adapt to massive depopulation while England's localized and rural landholding system had fully recovered by the year 1500 Anthropology and Social Change in Rural Areas Bernardo Berdichewsky, 2011-06-01 No detailed description available for Anthropology and Social Change in Rural Areas

The British Marxist Historians Harvey J. Kaye, 2022-09-30 The British Marxist Historians remains the first and most complete study of the founders of one of the most influential contemporary academic traditions in history and social theory In this classic text Kaye looks at Maurice Dobb and the debate on the transition to capitalism Rodney Hilton on feudalism and the English peasantry Christopher Hill on the English Revolution Eric Hobsbawm on workers peasants and world history and E P Thompson on the making of the English working class Kaye compares their perspective on history with other approaches such as that of the French Annales school and concludes with a discussion of the British Marxist historians' contribution to the formation of a democratic historical consciousness The British Marxist Historians is an indispensable book for anyone interested in the intellectual history of the late twentieth century Agrarian Tension and Conflict Binoy Nath Verma, Neelam Verma (Wife of Binoy N. Verma), 1994

Religion, Law, and Power : The Making of Protestant Ireland 1660-1760 S. J. Connolly, 1992-07-02 This is a study of religion politics and society in a period of great significance in modern Irish history The late seventeenth and early eighteenth centuries saw the consolidation of the power of the Protestant landed class the enactment of penal laws against Catholics and constitutional conflicts that forced Irish Protestants to redefine their ideas of national identity S J Connolly's scholarly and wide ranging study examines these developments and sets them in their historical context The Ireland that emerges from his lucid and penetrating analysis was essentially a part of ancien régime Europe a pre industrialized society in which social order depended less on a ramshackle apparatus of coercion than on complex structures of deference and mutual accommodation along with the absence of credible challengers to the dominance of a landed elite in which the ties of patronage and clientship were often more important than horizontal bonds of shared economic or social position and in which religion remained a central part of personal and political motivation

Historian and political thinker Ellen Meiksins Wood argues that theories of postmodern fragmentation difference and contingency can barely accommodate the idea of capitalism let alone subject it to critique In this book she sets out to renew the critical program of historical materialism by redefining its basic concepts and its theory of history in original and imaginative ways using them to identify the specificity of capitalism as a system of social relations and political power She goes on to explore the concept of democracy in both the ancient and modern world examining its relation to capitalism and raising questions about how democracy might go beyond the limits imposed on it The Brenner Debate Trevor Henry Aston, C. H. E. Philpin, 1987-03-30 The Brenner Debate discusses the transition from feudalism to capitalism in Western Europe through a variety of view points
