Educational Change towards Problem Based Learning: An Organizational Perspective Huichun Li,2013-11-29 As a promising educational approach PBL Problem Based Learning has been adopted by an increasing number of higher education institutions worldwide to replace the traditional lectured based educational approach However the organizational change towards PBL is not easy for higher education institutions especially for those with a long history of Lecture Based Learning Therefore it is necessary to investigate the challenges and obstacles for higher education institutions which are implementing PBL In order to address the research concern this book involves in an intensive exploration of two universities which are transforming their traditional educational approaches to PBL Specifically this book is concerned with how managers staff members and students interpret PBL and its implementation It reveals that the challenges for implementing PBL are closely linked to organizational members conception of PBL social learning and motivation at the university The conclusions are specified as firstly the organizational members understanding of PBL and social learning are quite diverse and some of them are not consistent with the managerial attempts. They may create huge tensions or chaos at the university depending on which strategy the managers have employed. Further, the organizational members' understandings of PBL are more concerned with teaching and curriculum design rather than learning, which should be highlighted within the PBL context. Besides, staff members have to struggle between different roles due to the complexity of the university in modern society, and some tasks such as researching will distract them from participating in teaching activities and thus undermine PBL implementation. Finally, the university has to make reflections on how to keep a balance between the use of normative approaches to guarantee organizational effectiveness and the intention of giving staff more freedom to make innovations and create new possibilities.

Learning and Teaching for the Twenty-First Century Rupert Maclean, 2007-10-05. This book stresses learning and teaching over teaching and learning. The contributors contend that education should not focus primarily on teachers and teaching but on learners, how best to facilitate learning in the most effective, enjoyable, relevant, and cost-effective ways for learners at any age. The book brings together thoughts and insights by international leaders in the fields of teaching and learning. It seeks to build bridges between researchers, policy makers, and practitioners.

Innovations in Educational Change David Hung, Shu-Shing Lee, Yancy Toh, Azilawati Jamaludin, Longkai Wu, 2019-08-07. This book offers an ecological perspective to understand the opportunities and complexities of spreading and sustaining educational innovations. It explores the imperatives underpinning educational reforms and identifies the role of schools in developing, disseminating, and sustaining changes in Singapore's educational context. It also includes international case studies that examine the dialectical relationships between structure, people, and culture and demonstrate that cultivating ecologies involves leveraging affordances and resources across the education system to create new contexts, synergies, and capacities. Further, it argues that educational innovations and reforms also need to consider tacit knowledge and conditions of transfer, which may be ambiguous and challenging. Few books address the nuances and interactions of innovation and change across levels of the education ecology, from the micro classroom, meso-organisation, school, exo-partners, macro-policy, and chrono-time scales/levels. The ecological perspective adopted in this book explores the dynamic tensions in order to understand the interplays of policy and school-level influences that contextualize school innovations. By presenting multiple voices and views, it allows impediments and affordances of innovation diffusion to be discussed holistically, which is an integral caveat for nurturing a sustainable ecology that enables innovations.

Developing School Leaders Mark Brundrett, Megan Crawford, 2008. School leaders now have to be financial and resource managers in addition to their traditional knowledge base. This book asks important questions about the provision of leadership courses, including whether models of leadership studies derived from the business and industry are relevant to schools.

Making Educational Changes Sustainable: A Guide David Baine, Ph.D., 2020-04-12. Billions of dollars are wasted on unsuccessful educational innovations. The results of failure to improve student outcomes discouraged teachers and wasted hope time and money This Guide demonstrates how to introduce positive and sustainable educational improvements based on leading research Practical step by step methods demonstrate preplanning analysis of influential social political educational financial and policy characteristics of contexts into which changes will be introduced make contextually valid decisions how to identify and prevent impediments to change Implementation use systematic strategies for introducing change how to create a culture of collaboration collegiality and authenticity united in the focus We can improve student achievements how to team with stakeholders the government school boards teachers students parents and the community how to deliver effective classroom valid professional development how to establish active and engaged communication for mutual feedback mentoring and reinforcement Evaluation how to select valid and reliable methods of program evaluation how to make data based decisions for program Sustainment how to make durable educational changes Written by an award winning author David Baine academic and practitioner If you want to improve student achievements this is a must have Guide

Politicians and Education Policy Sheridan Dudley, 2024-12-30 Based on an in depth case study this book reveals how politicians as policy makers conceptualise develop and initiate large scale education system reform and why it matters for whole system school improvement Governments all over the world are spending increasing time money and effort on improving school systems but the evidence suggests that few of them are getting it right There is much research devoted to educational strategies policies reform initiatives and outcomes However what is often missing is a generally agreed set of policies or principles which Ministers can draw on as a guiding framework This book shows how political context impacts the development of education policy and reveals the critical and dynamic relationship between politics policy and process This book gives new insights into politicians as leaders in large scale education system reform distils lessons and identifies three practical strategic frameworks which provide new ways of understanding and engaging in whole system reform Offering unique insider insights from an Education Minister their staff public servants and key stakeholders this book is written for all politicians policy makers and educators involved in school improvement as well as students of educational leadership and policy
