Coleman,1998-02-27 From the architecture of Frank Lloyd Wright to the rock gardens of Zen Buddhism Coleman explores applied fine and folk arts in order to uncover points of coalescence between art and religion Drawing from six living faiths Buddhism Christianity Hinduism Islam Judaism and Taoism this book philosophically analyzes relations between art and religion in order to explain how the concepts art beauty creativity and aesthetic experience find their place or counterparts in religious discourse and experience Coleman repeatedly shows that aesthetic ideas can serve as bridges to spiritual categories as when he relates aesthetic bliss to the peace that passes all understanding The author follows a three fold approach first he examines ideas and motifs from religious classics in world literature such as Lao Tzu's Tao Te Ching and The Interior Castle by Teresa of Avila in order to relate them to aesthetic phenomena Second he turns to the statements of artists such as Leo Tolstoy Vincent van Gogh Paul Gauguin Shih t ao and Wassily Kandinsky for themes and practices that have religious significance Third he analyzes and evaluates the writings of various theoreticians philosophers theologians art critics sociologists and psychologists on the relations between art and religion Coleman demonstrates for example that Martin Buber's I Thou relationship captures much that is central to art creativity and aesthetic experience as well as to religious life Among the themes that receive sustained treatment are the varieties of union in art and religion the child as a paradigm for artists and saints and creativity as essential to religion Finally the author critically weighs proposed distinctions between art and religion and between the broader categories of the aesthetic and the spiritual rejecting some and showing how others are compatible with his proposal that the aesthetic and the spiritual are cognate categories Roy Lichtenstein Julie Wolfe,2023-06-06 The first book length study to examine the materials and techniques used in the fabrication and painting of the American pop artist Roy Lichtenstein's outdoor sculpture Vibrant color was essential to the paintings of the American pop artist Roy Lichtenstein 1923-1997 and when he began exploring the creation of outdoor sculpture in the late 1970s, vibrant hues remained an important part of his artistic vocabulary. Today, preserving these remarkable works after they have endured decades in outdoor environments around the world is an issue of pressing concern. This abundantly illustrated volume is based on extensive archival research of Lichtenstein's studio materials, interviews with his assistants, and a thorough technical analysis of the sculpture Three Brushstrokes. The book concludes with a chapter showing various options for the care, conservation, and restoration of his sculptural works, making this an essential resource for conservators, curators, and others interested both in the iconic artist and modern sculpture in general.

Based on interviews and research conducted over a number of years, Angela McRobbie charts the flow of art school fashion graduates into the industry, their attempts to reconcile training with practice, and their precarious position between the twin supports of the education system and the commercial sector. Stressing the social context of cultural production, McRobbie focuses on British fashion and its graduate designers as products of youth, street culture, and analyses how designers from diverse backgrounds have created a labour market for themselves, remodelling enterprise culture to suit their own careers.
