Bureau of the Census,1962 31 Murders Alvin A.J. Esau,2024-02-20 Many decades before Ted Bundy roamed the country there was serial killer Earle Nelson During the 1920s this geographically mobile killer went from city to city His modus operandi involved getting into a house by pretending to be a person looking for a room to rent or inspecting a house that was for sale and then strangling the landlady often followed by having sex with the dead body Robbery was frequently a secondary motive After Nelson was captured in Canada in 1927 it was commonly reported that he had killed 21 women and a baby during the 1926 27 period But were these the only cases linked to him The author examines an additional nine unsolved murders of landladies two of which have never been dealt with in previous literature Based on decades of archival research the author examines all 31 murders relying on primary sources when available and a wide variety of secondary sources For each murder the book provides biographical sketches of the victim outlines the police investigation and the various suspects and covers any subsequent attempts to link Nelson to the crime by identification evidence of witnesses or by fingerprints

Angelica,Eugene M. Lewis,Mendocino Coast Genealogical Society,2013-03-01 This volume the tenth in a series chronicles the births deaths and marriages from 1990 through 1999 in one of California s more remote and beautiful counties The decade of the Nineties was marked by both positive and negative changes Nationally budget problems reduced services to a growing population and created a polarization of politics Yet a tremendous growth in technology fostered a bull stock market and growth of wealth In California Proposition 13 severely impacted all public services but growing surpluses later in the decade lifted local budget pressures Problems in the fishing and logging industries on California's North Coast combined with environmental concerns and an electric power crisis were offset by a growing tourist business Like the previous volumes the text is divided into three alphabetized sections All sections include the date of the newspaper in which the notice appears Birth announcements include the infant's name weight and date of birth father's name and residence and hospital Death notices provide name of the deceased and sundry information such as age residence occupation names of family members place of birth and place of burial Marriages are listed alphabetically by groom's surname and include names of bride groom parents minister and places of residence Anniversaries are also included in this section Brides are listed in the index under their maiden names
