Biz Jets Almarin Phillips,A. Paul Phillips,Thomas R. Phillips,2012-12-06 Biz Jets Technology and Market Structure in the Corporate Jet Aircraft Industry traces the development of business jet aircraft from the mid 1950s through early 1993 It begins with a discussion of the technological and market opportunities existing in the period prior to the introduction of the Lockheed JetStar and the North American Sabreliner The subsequent appearances of other biz jets the Learjets HS 125s Jet Commanders Falcons Gulfstreams Citations Challengers Mitsubishis and derivative aircraft are treated in considerable detail Biz Jets also covers planes involved in many unsuccessful attempts to enter the industry from 1955 through 1993 The study shows that while the industry has been quite concentrated throughout its history the positions of the leading firms have always been contestable Indeed leaders at one point in time have often been displaced by others who succeeded in marshalling technological and market opportunities to their advantage Manufacturers have had to undertake continuous efforts to improve the price performance characteristics of their aircraft to gain and hold their market shares Rivalries in the effective use of the stream of new technologies have brought forth new aircraft with both better performance and lower operating costs At the same time however participation in the market has been extremely risky Only a few companies have been able to earn profits Entries exits and mergers have altered the structure of the industry but it remained decidedly unstable at least through 1992 Air Force Magazine ,1991 operations changes in the role and requirements of NASA's Astronaut Corps will take place. At the request of NASA, the National Research Council (NRC) addressed three main questions about these changes: what should be the role and size of Johnson Space Center's JSC Flight Crew Operations Directorate (FCOD), what will be the requirements of astronaut training facilities, and is the Astronaut Corps fleet of training aircraft a cost-effective means of preparing astronauts for NASA's spaceflight program. This report presents an assessment of several issues driven by these questions. This report does not address explicitly the future of human spaceflight. Aircraft, Spacecraft, and Related Equipment Peder A. Andersen, 1991

This volume explores the nature of civil war in the modern world and in historical perspective. Civil wars represent the principal form of armed conflict since the end of the Second World War and certainly in the contemporary era. The nature and impact of civil wars suggests that these conflicts reflect and are also a driving force for major societal change. In this sense, Understanding Civil War: Continuity and Change in Intrastate Conflict argues that the nature of civil war is not fundamentally changing in nature. The book includes a thorough consideration of patterns and types of intrastate conflict and debates relating to the causes, impact, and changing nature of war. A key focus is on the political and social driving forces of such conflict and its societal meanings, significance, and consequences. The author also explores methodological and epistemological challenges related to studying and understanding intrastate war. A range of questions and debates are addressed: What is the current knowledge regarding the causes and nature of armed intrastate conflict? Is it possible to produce general cross-national theories on civil war which have broad explanatory relevance? Is the concept of civil wars empirically meaningful in an era of globalization and transnational war? Has intrastate conflict fundamentally changed in nature? Are there historical patterns in different types of intrastate conflict? What are the most interesting methodological trends and debates in the study of armed intrastate conflict? How are narratives about the causes and nature of civil wars constructed around ideas such as ethnic conflict, separatist conflict, and resource conflict? This book will be of much interest to students of civil wars, intrastate conflict, security studies, and IR in general. Scientific and Technical Aerospace
