Family Life in Black America Robert Joseph Taylor, James S. Jackson, Linda M. Chatters, 1997-08-13 Most studies of Black families have had a problem focus offering a narrow view of important issues such as out of wedlock births single parent families and childhood poverty Family Life in Black America moves away from this negative perspective and instead deals with a wide range of issues including sexuality procreation infancy adulthood adolescence cohabitation parenting grandparenting and ageing A fresh aspect of this book is the amount of diversity it reveals within black families and the forces that shape limit and enhance them

Social Work Practice with African American Families Cheryl Waites, 2009-06-02 Be more effective by understanding African American families from an intergenerational perspective Social workers looking to provide competent practice with African American families may be more effective by using a new strengths based approach from an intergenerational perspective Social Work Practice with African American Families presents a comprehensive look at this new approach to view assess and provide services to multigenerational families and communities It closely examines this useful innovative framework which encourages opportunities for action to create solutions for survival and change The approach dynamically considers the changing demographics in American society key issues and the various challenges pertinent to the African American community This text offers a strong culturally competent approach to social work practice for African American families that takes into consideration the latest policies programs and demographic changes It also incorporates the voices of African American families along with teaching that focuses on strengths derived from the transfer of information and support between multiple generations The book is extensively referenced and provides tables to clearly present data Topics discussed include the importance of strong kinship bonds demographic changes mutually supportive intergenerational relationships intergenerational policy intergenerational programs cultural genograms assessment issues long term care giving issues intergenerational influences on education the role of intergenerational knowledge transfer in church community programming and much more Social Work Practice with African American Families is a valuable resource for social workers counselors educators and students in African American studies and family studies

Black Aged Zev Harel, Edward A. McKinney, Michael Williams, 1990 How do various ethnic communities compare on levels of health income and quality of housing for their elderly This volume demonstrates that the Black community is among the poorest on all three levels especially when compared to their white counterparts The book offers conceptual perspectives on both the uniqueness of Black elderly as a group and at the same time provides analytical approaches for understanding their diversity In twelve incisive essays the state of America's Black aged is assessed and policies and programmes analyzed The authors point to the importance of gearing services to a diverse group of elderly people and highlight the severe demand for such community services curtailed by the very real discrimination

Aging in Black America James S. Jackson, Linda M. Chatters, Robert Taylor, 1993 This book provides a systematic overview of the status and life situations of elderly black Americans Based on an empirical national survey the contributors examine the major substantive issues related to psychological and social dimensions of ageing from a perspective that addresses the population's special circumstances and strengths Sections are devoted to community friends and family church and religion health social functioning and well being group identity and political participation and retirement and work

Gerontological Social Work in Small Towns and Rural Communities Lenard W. Kaye, Sandra Butler, 2012-10-12 Learn the skills you need to work with geriatric populations in rural areas Gerontological Social Work in Rural Towns and Communities provides a range of intervention and community skills aimed precisely at the needs of rural elders This book fills a gap in the literature by focusing on the specific practice concerns for social workers assisting older adults in rural areas including the aging experience social worker skills professional functions working with special populations and health and long term care concerns This valuable resource will benefit social workers gerontologists allied health professionals in rural areas health and human services administrators and managers Gerontological Social Work in Rural Towns and Communities explores the challenges social workers need to overcome when working with the elder community in rural areas This book's significance to social workers will only increase as more adults choose to live and grow old away from the cities Experts in the field suggest strategies to overcome barriers in planning and providing services such as a longer distance for the elderly to travel to use social service centers a narrower range of available services in the local area increased poverty levels for the elderly a stronger dependency by elderly on family rather than public assistance This book is divided into five sections

Rurality and Aging introduces the concept of rurality and examines the demographics of aging from a rural perspective Practice Dimensions of Social Work with Rural Elders includes clinical practice models intervention and advocacy techniques program planning and marketing approaches Special Populations gives attention to four special population groups indigenous elders African American older adults elderly Latinos and disabled elders Special Issues Pertaining to Rural Elders covers five essential issues for rural gerontological social workers health promotion older workers and retirement preparation aging in place specialized housing and ethical practice Training and Policy Recommendations future training and education recommendations for social workers are explored as well as service capacity building the aging network and the future of long term care While a variety of theoretical perspectives are explored in Gerontological Social Work in Rural Towns and Communities the book's empowerment orientation and strengths based approach will enhance your abilities to improve quality of life for elderly individuals in rural communities Each chapter contains a comprehensive review of the literature on the subject it addresses and several chapters include tables and graphs to further establish their revealing empirical findings An appendix provides additional sources to turn to for more information

Handbook of Social Work in Health and Aging Barbara Berkman, 2006-02-09 The Handbook of Social Work in Health and Aging is the first reference to combine the fields of health care aging and social work in a single authoritative volume These areas are too often treated as discrete entities while the reality is that all social workers deal with issues in health and aging on a daily basis regardless of practice specialization As the baby boomers age the impact on practice in health and aging will be dramatic and social workers need more specialized knowledge about aging health care and the resources available to best serve older adults and their families The volume's 102 original chapters and 13 overviews written by the most experienced and prominent gerontological health care scholars in the United States and across the world provide social work practitioners and educators with up to date knowledge of evidence based practice guidelines for effectively assessing and treating older adults and their families new models for intervention in both community based practice and institutional care and knowledge of significant policy and research issues in health and aging A truly monumental resource this handbook represents the best research on health and aging available to social workers today

Perspectives on Elderly Crime and Victimization Peter C. Kratcoski,Maximilian Edelbacher,2018-03-28 This textbook focuses on the criminality and victimization of the elderly population. It provides a global perspective on the extent of the elderly crime and victimization with international comparisons for addressing the problem. It explores the extent and types of crimes committed by the elderly, the characteristics of older criminals, and the responses of the criminal justice system, including prisons and institutions to elderly criminals, including diversion programs, community-based treatment programs, and special programs including health, mental health, care services for older prisoners. The second part of the book covers victimization of the elderly. Research findings show that certain crimes, including fraud, theft, and certain types of financial crimes, disproportionately affect older people, and these types of crimes are growing in prevalence. This work explores the characteristics of older victims and the types of crimes that affect them. Finally, the book presents comparative international research on approaches to crime prevention, education, and legislation to address the victimization of the elderly. This work will be of interest to students in criminology and criminal justice, as well as related fields such as sociology and gerontology.
