A Historical Taxonomy of Talking Birds in Chinese Literature Wilt L.

Idema, 2025-03-04 Parrots and mynahs have played a unique role in Chinese literature for two millennia. These birds that can talk and interact intelligently with their owners were treasured as pets both in the palace and in private homes. The caged birds were pitied for their homesickness but praised for their eagerness to serve. Over time they developed into exemplars of Confucian values such as filial piety and loyalty and they also featured prominently in tales of love and war. Closely associated with Buddhism from early on, the parrot proved itself an effective preacher of the Dharma and became the favorite bird of the bodhisattva Guanyin. In this wide-ranging thematic study, Wilt L. Idema traces the development of the parrot and the mynah as characters in many forms of poetry and prose of Chinese elite literature as well as in the long narrative ballads of traditional popular literature. The book provides complete renditions of Mi Heng's 173-198 Rhapsody on the Parrot, the anonymous Tale of the Parrot's Filial Piety of the fifteenth century and the anonymous Precious Scroll of the Parrot of late imperial times. An epilogue discusses the disappearance of the parrot in modern Chinese literature.

Favourite Song Birds Henry Gardiner Adams, 1889 American Miscellany of Entertaining Knowledge Francis Channing Woodworth, 1852 The Standard Speaker Epes Sargent, 1852 Woodworth's Youth's Cabinet, 1852 Youth's Cabinet Francis Channing Woodworth, 1852 Metaphors of Confinement Monika Fludernik, 2019 Metaphors of Confinement: The Prison in Fact, Fiction and Fantasy offers a historical survey of imaginings of the prison as expressed in carceral metaphors in a range of texts about imprisonment from Antiquity to the present as well as non-penal situations described as confining or restrictive. These imaginings coalesce into a carceral imaginary that determines the way we think about prisons just as social debates about punishment and criminals feed into the way carceral imaginary develops over time. Examining not only English language prose fiction but also poetry and drama from the Middle Ages to postcolonial, particularly African literature, the book juxtaposes literary and non-literary contexts and contrasts fictional and nonfictional representations of imprisonment and discussions about the prison as institution and experiential reality. It comments on present-day trends of punitivity and foregrounds the ethical dimensions of penal punishment. The main argument concerns the continuity of carceral metaphors through the centuries despite historical developments that included major shifts in policy such as the invention of the penitentiary. The study looks at selected carceral metaphors often from two complementary perspectives such as the home as prison or the prison as home or the factory as prison and the prison as factory. The case studies present particularly relevant genres and texts that employ these metaphors often from a historical perspective that analyses development through different periods.
