S.

Jacyna, Stephen T. Casper, 2012 Parkinson's Alzheimer's Tourette's multiple sclerosis stroke all are neurological illnesses that create dysfunction distress and disability With their symptoms ranging from impaired movement and paralysis to hallucinations and dementia neurological patients present myriad puzzling disorders and medical challenges Throughout the nineteenth and twentieth centuries countless stories about neurological patients appeared in newspapers books medical papers and films Often the patients were romanticized indeed it was common for physicians to cast neurological patients in a grand performance allegedly giving audiences access to deep philosophical insights about the meaning of life and being. Beyond these romanticized images however the neurological patient was difficult to diagnose. Experiments often approached unethical realms and treatment created challenges for patients, courts, caregivers and even for patient advocacy organizations. In this kaleidoscopic study the contributors illustrate how the neurological patient was constructed in history and came to occupy its role in Western culture.

Stephen T. Casper is Assistant Professor in Humanities and Social Sciences at Clarkson University. L. Stephen Jacyna is reader in the History of Medicine and Director of the Centre for the History of Medicine at University College London.

This 2004 volume deals with the modernisation, differentiation and expansion of higher education which led to the triumph of modern science, changing the relations between universities and national states, teachers and students, their ambitions and political activities. History of Psychiatry and Medical Psychology Edwin R. Wallace, John Gach, 2010-04-13 Most of the prefatory issues are extensively elaborated upon in the Prolegomenon which also contains the complete references to the texts and authors discussed below Nevertheless the Preface would be grossly incomplete without touching on some of these issues books and scholars Too many of this book s chapters e g Moras Marx s D B Weiner s examine and reference important earlier as well as contemporary general histories of psychiatry and specialized monographs in German French Italian and Spanish Also in his 1968 Short History of Psychiatry discussed below Ackerknecht pp xi xii references important nineteenth and earlier twentieth century psychiatric histories in English French and German Such citations will of course not be repeated here Finally thanks to several publishers re editions of dozens of classical psychiatric texts one can consult their bibliographies as well See Prolegomenon for references to these splendid series In a rough and ready sense medical history began in classical Greece for example On Ancient Medicine While traditionally included in the Hippocratic corpus this text seems more likely to have been written by a non or even anti Hippocratic doctor Moreover the Hippocratic and other schools were hardly as secular as we now suppose On Epilepsy for example does not so much declare the prevalent denotation of it as the sacred disease erroneous as it does that it is no more nor less sacred than any other disease
