Black Diamond Mining The Memories:

Black Diamond Diane Olson, Cory Olson, 1988 Black Diamond Mines Regional Preserve Traci Parent, Karen Terhune, 2009 From the 1860s to the turn of the 20th century the Mount Diablo Coal Field was the largest coal producing region in California and once boasted five thriving communities With the decline of coal mining some residents turned to ranching Later rich deposits of sand were mined for glass and foundry use In 1973 the East Bay Regional Park District acquired the land Today visitors to Black Diamond Mines Regional Preserve located 45 miles east of San Francisco can explore miles of trails tour the Hazel Atlas silica sand mine and visit historic Rose Hill Cemetery Regional Geology of Mount Diablo, California Raymond Sullivan, Doris Sloan, Jeffrey R. Unruh, David P. Schwartz, 2021 Mount Diablo and the geology of the Central California Coast Ranges are the subject of a volume celebrating the Northern California Geological Society's 75th anniversary The breadth of research illustrates the complex Mesozoic to Cenozoic tectonic evolution of the plate boundary Tangible Memories Harry M. Butte, Judith M. Taylor, 2003-06-18 California may be the golden state but it is also a garden state Innumerable gardens have been made since the Europeans first came starting with the Franciscan missionaries The gold rush was the defining period leading to immense expenditures by newly rich miners This book discusses many simple but beautiful gardens created by waves of immigrants Gardens were necessary for food but also represented repose and leisure The nature and style of domestic and private gardens shape the landscape of cities and towns just as much as large civic architectural achievements Black Civil War Veterans in Washington State Cynthia A. Wilson, 2024-06-17 Men of Valor In the late 1800s the new state of Washington promised peace and prosperity to new settlers At least thirty three African American men who had served during the Civil War answered the call Paul Barrows a former legislator from Mississippi established the Calvary Baptist Church of Spokane Gideon H Stump Bailey became the first African American Justice of the Peace in Franklin Allin Alfred Hawkins born into slavery became one of the wealthiest African American farmers in the Yakima Valley Author Cynthia A Wilson uncovers the stories of these courageous men The Black Diamond, 1955 Welsh Americans Ronald L. Lewis, 2009-06-01 In 1890 more than 100 000 Welsh born immigrants resided in the United States A majority of them were skilled laborers from the coal mines of Wales who had been recruited by American mining companies Readily accepted by American society Welsh immigrants experienced a unique process of acculturation In the first history of this exceptional community Ronald Lewis explores how Welsh immigrants made a significant contribution to the development of the American coal industry and how their rapid and successful assimilation affected Welsh American culture Lewis describes how Welsh immigrants brought their national churches fraternal orders and societies love of literature and music and most important their own language Yet unlike eastern and southern Europeans and the Irish the Welsh even with their foreign ways encountered no apparent hostility from the Americans Often within a single generation Welsh cultural institutions would begin to fade and a new Welsh American identity developed True to the perspective of the Welsh themselves Lewis's analysis adopts a transnational view of immigration examining the maintenance of Welsh coal mining culture in the United States and in Wales By focusing on Welsh coal miners Welsh Americans illuminates how Americanization occurred among a distinct group of skilled immigrants and demonstrates the diversity of the labor migrations to a rapidly industrializing America Company Towns of the Pacific Northwest Linda Carlson, 2017-09-01 Company town The words evoke images of rough and tumble loggers and gritty miners of dreary shacks in isolated villages of wages paid in scrip good only at price gouging company stores of paternalistic employers But these stereotypes are outdated especially for those company towns that flourished well into the twentieth century This new edition updates the status of the surviving towns and how they have changed in the fifteen years since the original edition and what new life has been created on the sites of the ones that were razed In the preface Linda Carlson reflects on how wonderful it has been to meet people who lived in these towns or had parents who did and to hear about their memorable experiences Beaten Down David Peterson del Mar, 2011-10-01 Selected by Choice as an Outstanding Academic Title for 2003 The word violence conjures up images of terrorism bombings and lynchings Beaten Down is concerned with more prosaic acts of physical force a husband slapping his wife a parent taking a birch branch to a child a pair of drunken friends squaring off to establish who was the better man David Peterson del Mar accounts for the social relations of power that lie behind this intimate form of violence this white noise that has always been with us humming quietly between more explosive acts of violence Broad in its chronological and cultural sweep Beaten Down examines interpersonal violence in Washington Oregon and British Columbia beginning with Native American cultures before colonization and continuing into the mid twentieth century It contrasts the disparate ways of practicing and punishing interpersonal violence on each side of the U S Canadian border Del Mar concludes that we cannot comprehend the causes and moral consequences of a violent act without considering larger social relations of power whether between colonizers and original inhabitants between spouses between parents and children or between and among different ethnic groups The author has drawn on a vast array of vivid sources including newspaper accounts autobiographies novels oral histories historical and ethnographic publications and hundreds of detailed court cases to account for not only the relative frequency of different forms of violence but also the shifting definitions and perceptions of what constitutes violence This is a thoughtful and probing account of how and why people have hit each other and the manner in which opinion makers and ordinary citizens have censured defended or celebrated such acts Del Mar's conclusions have important implications for an understanding of violence and perceptions of violence in contemporary society Black Diamond Destiny Helen M. Norris, 2013-09-03 Involves a West Virginia mountaineer family father mother five sons and daughter Their complicated rise from abject poverty to become multi millionaires through their efforts in the coal mining industry From a small outcrop of coal on their unproductive farm they eventually own thirty production mines and become the largest coal corporation in the world controlling the coal industry in West Virginia for over sixty years Poverty stricken but ambitious in the year 1850 Matt Mattison secretly kills Abe a Jewish itinerant peddler who visits his home periodically using Abes money to open a small drift mine on his farm He is assisted in the venture by his five sons who are unaware of their fathers sudden source of funds A true story At the birth of his daughters illegitimate son Matt realized that his daughter Gem and Abe had a clandestine love affair planned to marry and that Abe had impregnated to comely Gem Matt conscious stricken becomes psychotic Gem suspicious of her father grieving that the father of her child had given his life for her familys prosperity refuses any finances earned from their mining endeavors leaves home adverse circumstances impel her to become proprietress of the towns bawdy house The plot involves Gems life embarrassing to the family but offers amusing incidents in the bordello that becomes public Her brothers push the mining business to great success becoming powerful financially and politically Her bastard son known later as A P in the industry well educated but burdened by his mothers profession becomes president of the worlds largest coal corporation Marries a socialite interested in breeding show horses they build pretentious mansion on 365 acres own private railroad train ocean going yacht lavish apartment in New York City The novel follows several generations of family involving many complications romances pathos of the five brothers threatened loss of their mines through bitterly fought union strikes and devastating mine explosions Much of this story is true and interwoven with fiction All character names are fictitious Interesting coal mining facts as they effect the family are included As well as the complete portrayal of the cruel exploration of the miners as the greedy and often inhumane madness of the coal barons to accumulate excessive wealth Now that coal is becoming an important factor in our energy crisis this story is timely Readers will become educated about the problems in this important industry as the story of this once poverty stricken family unfolds

Colored Memories Susan Curtis, 2008 Lester A Walton was a well known public figure in his day An African American journalist cultural critic diplomat and political activist he was an adviser to presidents and industrialists in a career that spanned the first six decades of the twentieth century He was a steadfast champion of democracy and lived to see the passage of major civil rights legislation But one word best describes Walton today forgotten Exploring the contours of this extraordinary life Susan Curtis seeks to discover why our collective memory of Walton has failed In a unique narrative of historical research she recounts a fifteen year journey from the streets of Harlem and The Ville in St Louis to scattered archives and obscure public records as she uncovers the mysterious circumstances surrounding Walton s disappearance from national consciousness And despite numerous roadblocks and dead ends in her quest she tells how she came to know this emblematic citizen of the American Century in surprising ways In this unconventional book a postmodern ghost story an unprecedented experiment in life writing Curtis shares her discoveries as a researcher Relating her frustrating search through long overlooked documents to discover this forgotten man she offers insight into how America's obsession with race has made Walton's story unwelcome. She explores the treachery, duplicity and archival accidents that transformed a man dedicated to the fulfillment of American democracy into a shadowy figure. Combining anecdotal memories with the investigative instincts of the historian, Curtis embraces the subjectivity of her research to show that what a society forgets or suppresses is just as important as what it includes in its history. Colored Memories is a highly original work that not only introduces readers to a once influential figure but also invites us to reconsider how we view, understand and preserve the past.

Bienfait Stephen Lyon Endicott, 2002-01-01 With the tumultuous thirty day strike of 1931 by miners in Bienfait, Saskatchewan as his focus, Stephen Endicott explores the social consequences of capitalist restructuring during the Great Depression.

Black Diamond City Jan Peterson, 2002 Black Diamond City The Victorian Era is the first book in Jan Peterson's trilogy on the history of Nanaimo. Peterson traces the evolution of the city from its First Nations history to its coal industry to its becoming a diversified Victorian era community. Using original diaries, journals, letters, ships logs, government records, maps, archival photographs and her own drawings, Peterson vividly brings to life both the historical events that shaped Nanaimo and its people.

Towards a Comparative History of Coalfield Societies Andy Croll, 2017-05-15 Few areas of labour history have received as much attention as the coal industry, with miners often finding themselves at the centre of studies on working class political and industrial history. Yet whilst much has been written about the struggles of miners and their unions in particular countries, their national confrontations and political organization, much less work has been done on the regional communities and how they related both to the national and international picture. The central theme of this volume is to transcend such overarching national models and to focus instead on local coal mining societies which can then be compared and contrasted to similar communities elsewhere. In so doing, the book is able to tackle a number of familiar labour history themes in a more nuanced way, exploring issues of political activism and class relationships from the perspectives of gender, ethnicity, race and specific localized cultural traditions. As the chapters in this volume illustrate, such an approach can offer rich and often surprising conclusions, in many cases challenging the accepted notion of miners as the vanguard of militant working class political activism. Adopting a regional approach that compares coalfield communities from five continents, this volume reflects coalfield experiences on a truly global scale. By looking at what made communities unique as well as what they shared in common, a much fuller understanding of the workplace, neighbourhood, family, identity and political organization is possible. Underlining the strong connections between politics, community and identity, this work emphasizes the challenges and opportunities available to labour historians pushing forward the boundaries of the discipline in new and exciting ways.
