Willow Fox, Allison West

Allisons Wedding Dress And A Host Of Other Exci:

Allison's Wedding Dress Charlie Brough, 2004-07 Allison's Wedding Dress one of the 46 short stories in this book is based on a young woman the author met and observed while living and working in Aberdeen Washington The fictionalized account of her life was chosen to be the cornerstone of this collection of short stories all of which are written by the author of this book This collection is sure to entertain readers of all ages Allison raised by her great aunt and uncle lived under extremely rigid conditions She was forced to marry a total stranger who used her in place of frequenting the local brothel Emotionally battered and practically brainwashed that she was going to go to hell Allison lived a lonesome and forlorn life in her and John's tiny rundown home next to the railroad tracks The very same house where her mother by the same name had died Many of these stories are true to life or based on real events from newspaper articles Mega Woman details how winning the Mega Bucks lottery may have changed the life of a young woman struggling to make ends meet Other stories answer questions never before answered like how did the SCUD missile come by its name The Mystery Of The Mima Mounds is my offering of science fiction

After Life: Love Patrick Lee, 2010-05-31 Jackson Hamilton had everything in life except for someone to share it with When he found her he lost it all When one life ends another begins and the journey that everyone wonders about is much more spectacular than anyone imagines Follow his experience learning to exist on the other side of the glass trying to protect the people he loves most and save everyone in the process

The Gardener's Wife Jane Allison, 2021-03-26 Emma Holt has been happily married for many years to the gardener of the local Quaker school. Headmaster Philip Manners, on the other hand, has been unhappily married to the Bishop's daughter for just as long. When Philip finds Emma in the school library, he can't help but be intrigued by her. Emma, dealing with her two eldest sons going off to war, is overloading herself with work to keep her mind focused. Philip, meanwhile, is trying to understand how his students could enlist when he teaches them pacifism, but is also struggling with his conscience: is he really falling in love with another man's wife? When conscription finally arrives and all the eligible men are called up, Emma and Philip find themselves unavoidably tangled up in each other's lives more and more. Emma is pushed to her limits with worrying about her sons and trying to juggle all her new duties, while Philip, ineligible to be called up, can't help but rush to comfort her when the worst happens overseas. With Emma torn between the loyalty she has for her husband and the passion she's been missing for so long with Philip, will she fight to hold on to Philip or stand back when events conspire to rip them apart for good?
