An Introduction to Environmental Archaeology John G. Evans, 1978      Environmental Archaeology: Meaning and Purpose Umberto Albarella, 2013-04-17 Despite the fact that the human life of the past cannot be understood without taking into account its ecological relationships environmental studies are often marginalised in archaeology This is the first book that by discussing the meaning and purpose we give to the expression environmental archaeology investigates the reasons for such a problem This is achieved through the use of theoretical considerations and the aid of a number of case studies which by taking us from Anglo Saxon England to pre Columbian Venezuela and from Classical Greece to late Antique Egypt emphasise the potential of an integrated approach The book is written by archaeologists with different backgrounds and is addressed to all researchers who care about the past relationship between people and the rest of Nature Despite the complexity of some of the issues tackled the book is written in an accessible manner and should be of interest to all students who want to understand the essence of archaeology beyond the boundary of the individual sub disciplines      An Introduction to Environmental Archaeology John G. Evans, 1978      Environmental Archaeology Elizabeth Reitz, Myra Shackley, 2012-06-05 One of the most significant developments in archaeology in recent years is the emergence of its environmental branch the study of humans interactions with their natural surroundings over long periods and of organic remains instead of the artifacts and household items generally associated with sites With the current attention paid to human responsibility for environmental change this innovative field is recognized by scientists conservation and heritage managers and policymakers worldwide In this context comes Environmental Archaeology by Elizabeth Reitz and Myra Shackley updating the seminal 1981 text Environmental Archaeology by Myra Shackley Rigorously detailed yet concise and accessible this volume surveys the complex and technical field of environmental archaeology for researchers interested in the causes consequences and potential future impact of environmental change and archaeology Its coverage acknowledges the multiple disciplines involved in the field expanding the possibilities for using environmental data from archaeological sites in enriching related disciplines and improving communication among them Introductory chapters explain the processes involved in the formation of sites introduce research designs and field methods and walk the reader through biological classifications before focusing on the various levels of biotic and abiotic materials found at sites including Sediments and soils Viruses bacteria archaea protists and fungi Bryophytes and vascular plants Wood charcoal stems leaves and roots Spores pollen and other microbotanical remains Arthropods molluscs echinoderms and vertebrates Stable isotopes elements and biomolecules The updated Environmental Archaeology is a major addition to the resource library of archaeologists environmentalists historians researchers policymakers anyone involved in studying managing or preserving historical sites The updated Environmental Archaeology is a major addition to the resource library of archaeologists environmentalists historians researchers policymakers anyone involved in studying managing or preserving historical sites      Case Studies in Environmental Archaeology Elizabeth Reitz, C. Margaret Scarry, Sylvia J. Scudder, 2008 This book highlights studies addressing significant anthropological issues in the Americas from the perspective of environmental archaeology The book uses case studies to resolve questions related to human behavior in the past rather than to demonstrate the application of methods Each chapter is an original or revised work by an internationally recognized scientist This second edition is based on the 1996 book of the same title The editors have invited back a number of contributors from the first edition to revise and update their chapter New studies are included in order to cover recent developments in the field or additional pertinent topics

Environmental Archaeology in Ireland Eileen M. Murphy, Nicki J. Whitehouse, 2007-10-10 This edited volume of 16 papers provides an introduction to the techniques and methodologies approaches and potential of environmental archaeology within Ireland Each of the 16 invited contributions focuses on a particular aspect of environmental archaeology and include such specialist areas as radiocarbon dating dendrochronology palaeoentomology human osteoarchaeology palynology and geoarchaeology thereby providing a comprehensive overview of environmental archaeology within an Irish context The inclusion of pertinent case studies within each chapter will heighten awareness of the profusion of high standard environmental archaeological research that is currently being undertaken on Irish material The book will provide a key text for students and practitioners of archaeology archaeological science and palaeoecology

An Introduction to Zooarchaeology Diane Gifford-Gonzalez, 2018-04-03 This volume is a comprehensive critical introduction to vertebrate zooarchaeology the field that explores the history of human relations with animals from the Pliocene to the Industrial Revolution The book is organized into five sections each with an introduction that leads the reader systematically through this swiftly expanding field Section One presents a general introduction to zooarchaeology key definitions and an historical survey of the emergence of zooarchaeology in the Americas Europe Asia and Africa and introduces the conceptual approach taken in the book This volume is designed to allow readers to integrate data from the book along with that acquired elsewhere within a coherent analytical framework Most of its chapters take the form of critical review articles providing a portal into both the classic and current literature and contextualizing these with original commentary Summaries of findings are enhanced by profuse illustrations by the author and others

An Introduction to Peatland Archaeology and Palaeoenvironments Benjamin R. Gearey, Henry P. Chapman, 2022-12-02 Peatlands are regarded as having exceptional archaeological value due to the fact the waterlogged conditions of these wetlands can preserve organic remains that are almost entirely lost from the majority of dryland contexts This is certainly true although the remarkable preservation of sites and artifacts is just one aspect of their archaeological importance This book provides an accessible introduction to the ecology and formation processes of peatlands and to the different archaeological and palaeoenvironmental techniques that have been developed and adapted for the study of these environments It provides an outline of the major themes and methods and as a guide to other more detailed and technical literature concerning peatland archaeology The book is aimed at undergraduate and postgraduate students in archaeology earth sciences and cognate disciplines but will be useful to professional archaeologists who are looking to develop their expertise in this field Whilst the assumption is that the reader has little knowledge of peatlands a general archaeological background is necessary including some knowledge of techniques and approaches

Principles of Archaeological Stratigraphy Edward C. Harris, 2014-06-28 This book is the only text devoted entirely to archaeological stratigraphy a subject of fundamental importance to most studies in archaeology The first edition appeared in 1979 as a result of the invention by the author of the Harris Matrix a method for analyzing and presenting the stratigraphic sequences of archaeological sites The method is now widely used in archaeology all over the world The opening chapters of this edition discuss the historical development of the ideas of archaeological stratigraphy The central chapters examine the laws and basic concepts of the subject and the last few chapters look at methods of recording stratification constructing stratigraphic sequences and the analysis of stratification and artifacts The final chapter which is followed by a glossary of stratigraphic terms gives an outline of a modern system for recording stratification on archaeological sites This book is written in a simple style suitable for the student or amateur The radical ideas set out should also give the professional archaeologist food for thought Covers a basic principle of all archaeological excavations Provides a data description and analysis tool for all such digs which is now widely accepted and used Gives extra information

Environmental Archaeology Chris Turney, Matthew Canti, Nick Branch, Peter Clark, 2014-05-12 Environmental Archaeology Theoretical and Practical Approaches outlines and assesses the various methods used to reconstruct and explain the past interaction between people and their environment Emphasising the importance of a highly scientific approach to the subject the book combines geoarchaeological bioarchaeological archaeobotany and zooarchaeology and geochronological information and examines how these various aspects of archaeology may be used to enhance our knowledge and understanding of past human environments Drawing from both the practical experiences of the authors and cutting edge research Environmental Archaeology Theoretical and Practical Approaches is a valuable contribution to the subject It will be essential reading for students and professionals in archaeology geography and anthropology

Land and People Michael J. Allen, Niall Sharples, Terry O'Connor, 2009-09-10 This volume is derived in concept from a conference held in honour of John Evans by the School of History and Archaeology and The Prehistoric Society at Cardiff University in March 2006 It brings together papers that address themes and landscapes on a variety of levels They cover geographical methodological and thematic areas that were of interest to and had been studied by John Evans The volume is divided into five sections which echo themes of importance in British prehistory They include papers on aspects of environmental archaeology experiments and philosophy new research on the nature of woodland on the chalklands of southern England coasts and islands people process and social order and snails and shells a strong part of John Evans career This volume presents a range of papers examining people s interaction with the landscape in all its forms The papers provide a diverse but cohesive picture of how archaeological landscapes are viewed within current research frameworks and approaches while also paying tribute to the innovative and inspirational work of one of the leading protagonists of environmental archaeology and the holistic approach to landscape interpretation

The Environmental Archaeology of Industry Peter Murphy, Patricia E. J. Wiltshire, 2003

The environmental impact of industry is often profound and far reaching and has long been present in the cultural landscape but research into the nature and relative importance of industrial activity has been somewhat neglected by environmental archaeologists This volume presents eighteen papers deriving from a conference of the Association for Environmental Archaeology they aim to bridge the gap between environmental and industrial archaeology The papers address several major issues including the effects of mining and smelting on sedimentation and vegetation in river catchments the environmental impact of industries which are based on high temperature processes and require reliable sources of fuel such as metallurgy pottery glass and lime making the environmental impact of industrial processes based on biological raw materials such as horn bone hides and shell and the effects of industry on human health Contents Setting the Scene F Chambers Reconstructing the environmental impact of past metallurgical activities P D Marshall An environmental approach to the archaeology of tin mining on Dartmoor V Thorndycraft D Pirriert and A G Brown Wood based industrial fuels and their environmental impact in lowland Britain R Gale The iron production industry and its extensive demand upon woodland resources A case study from Creeton Quarry Lincolnshire J Cowgill Tanning and horn working at late and post mediaeval Bruges A Ervynck B Hillewaert A Maes and M van Strydonck Tawyers tanners horn trade and the mystery of the missing goat U Albarella Choice and use of shells for artefacts at Roman sites in the Eastern Desert of Egypt S Hamilton Dyer Industrial activities some suggested microstratigraphic signatures R Macphail Deriving information efficiently from surveys of artefact distribution R S Shiel and S B Mohamed Can we identify biological indicator groups for craft industry and other activities A Hall and H Kenward Archaeological arthropod faunas as indicators of past industrial activities J Schelvis Charred mollusc shells as indicators of industrial activities P Murphy Saxon flax retting in river channels and the apparent lack of water pollution M Robinson The rise and fall of Rickets in England S A Mays A comparison of health in past rural urban and industrial England M Lewis Determining occupation from skeletal remains is it possible T Waldron and W Birch The disposal and decomposition of human and animal remains D W Hopkins and P E J Wiltshire
