Chicago's North Michigan Avenue John W. Stamper, 1991-08-27 Since its opening in the 1920s Chicago's North Michigan Avenue has been one of the city's most prestigious commercial corridors lined by some of its most architecturally distinctive business residential and hotel buildings Planned by Daniel Burnham in 1909 the avenue became the principal connecting link between downtown and the wealthy residential Gold Coast north of the Loop Some thirty buildings were constructed along its path in the ten year period before the Depression an urban expansion comparable in significance to that of Pennsylvania and Park Avenues John W Stamper traces the complex development of North Michigan Avenue from the 1880s to the 1920s building boom that solidified its character and economic base describing the initiation of the planning process by private interests to its execution aided by the city's powerful condemnation and taxation proceedings He focuses on individual buildings constructed on the avenue including the Renaissance and Gothic inspired Wrigley Building Tribune Tower and Drake Hotel and places them within the context of factors governing their construction property ownership financing zoning laws design theory and advertising Stamper compares this stylistically diverse mixture of low and high rise structures with earlier rejected planning proposals all of which had prescribed a uniformly designed European like avenue of continuous cornice heights consistent facade widths and complementary stylistic features He analyzes the drastically different character the avenue took by 1930 with high rise towers reaching thirty stories and beyond in terms of the clash among economic political and architectural interests His argument that the discrepancies between the rejected plans and reality illustrate the developers choice of economic return on their investment over aesthetic community is extended through to the present avenue and the virtual disregard of the urban qualities proposed at its inception Generously illustrated with an epilogue condensing the avenue's history between the end of World War II and the present this is an exhaustive account of

Pran, Christian Norberg-Schulz, 1998 Housing and Planning References, 1979 Mies van der Rohe Franz Schulze, Edward Windhorst, 2020-03-04 An excellent new edition of the definitive biography of the architectural genius with more than a hundred photos Booklist starred review Upon publication this book was praised by the Chicago Tribune and the most comprehensive book ever written about the master designer and by any measure the best while the Christian Science Monitor noted that Schulze has both the gift of an architectural historian able to render Mies's building innovations and that of a biographer able to paint the humanity and shortcomings of the man Newsweek called it a revelation Now this biography of the iconic modernist architect and designer has been extensively updated providing an even more enlightening and intimate portrait of a man who helped to create the twentieth century world This excellent revised edition has 138 illustrations incisive descriptions of Mies innovative creations and a fascinating account of his Pyrrhic victory in a lawsuit against his disaffected client Edith Farnsworth Booklist starred review This authoritative biography of Mies van der Rohe has been updated through building records the recollections of students and a court transcript It's a gripping read Christopher Woodward Building Design Papers - The American Association of Architectural Bibliographers American Association of Architectural Bibliographers, 1979 An Introduction to Architectural Theory Harry Francis Mallgrave, David J.
