Boxing R. G. Allanson-Winn, 1889 The First Black Boxing Champions Colleen Aycock, Mark Scott, 2014-01-10 This volume presents fifteen chapters of biography of African American and black champions and challengers of the early prize ring They range from Tom Molineaux a slave who won freedom and fame in the ring in the early 1800s to Joe Gans the first African American world champion to the flamboyant Jack Johnson deemed such a threat to white society that film of his defeat of former champion and Great White Hope Jim Jeffries was banned across much of the country Photographs period drawings cartoons and fight posters enhance the biographies Round by round coverage of select historic fights is included as is a foreword by Hall of Fame boxing announcer Al Bernstein Box to Box Curtis Woodhouse, 2016-10-06 Even by boxing standards Curtis Woodhouse's story is truly remarkable Ricky Hatton As brutally honest as it is gripping amusing and illuminating Donald McRae A pulsating page turner of a book Mail on Sunday The football world is filled with stories of talented young footballers who have thrown it all away before drifting into obscurity Similarly the tale of an ageing boxer who won the title against the odds is so familiar it has become a cliché But put the two stories together and you've got something special wasted footballers simply don't become boxing champions at least they didn't before Curtis Woodhouse Woodhouse had been destined for greatness At the age of 17 he made his debut for his local club Sheffield United and quickly went from earning £42 a week to £4000 a week Suddenly he felt like a rock star and began living like one which didn't help his football Initially there wasn't a problem and he earned four England Under 21 caps playing alongside the likes of Steven Gerrard and Frank Lampard As his drinking increased and he began getting involved in fights he was sold to Birmingham City at 20 and saw his wages double but so did his problems After a brawl he was sentenced to 250 hours community service and when he finally reached the Premier League he ended up playing against Liverpool while still drunk He'd fallen out of love with the game After another transfer manager Barry Fry suggested he take up boxing to provide an outlet for his anger and a new passion was born While still playing football he became determined to make it as a boxer and endured a long hard battle to develop the skills to give him a chance and in September 2006 he made his professional debut With his father on his deathbed Woodhouse made a promise he would win a British title On 22 February 2014 he got his chance against Darren Hamilton I knew I wouldn't lose Packed with brilliant stories and searingly honest insight Box to Box shows how anyone can achieve their dreams if they work hard enough This tale will have you teary one moment and in fits of laughter the next A must read Daily Star Boxing's Greatest Fighters Bert Randolph Sugar, 2006-01-01 Easily the most enduring of all sports questions is Who was is the best Perhaps in no sport is the question more asked and argued over than in boxing And in boxing perhaps none is more qualified to answer the question than Bert Randolph Sugar In Boxing's

Greatest Fighters not only does the former publisher of Ring Magazine tell us who the best fighters were he lists them in order Could Sugar Ray Robinson have beaten Muhammad Ali Could Sugar Ray Leonard have beaten Sonny Liston The answer most experts agree would be no But what if as Bert Sugar has done here one were to take all the boxers and reduce them in the mind's eye to the same height the same weight and the same ring conditions The answers would be quite different And while some fans may express outrage that Rocky Marciano barely makes the top twenty and Marvin Hagler staggers into the top seventy five others will nod eagerly when they read that Harry Greb and Benny Leonard were better than just about anybody So whether you read Boxing's Greatest Fighters cover to cover pick your favorites at random or simply browse through the many rare photographs at the bell come out arguing
