Early Modern Autobiography Ronald Bedford, Lloyd Davis, Philippa Kelly, 2006 Why and in what ways did late medieval and early modern English people write about themselves and what was their understanding of how selves were made and discussed This collection goes to the heart of current debate about literature and autobiography addressing the contentious issues of what is meant by early modern autobiographical writing how it was done and what was understood by self representation in a society whose groupings were both elaborate and highly regulated Early Modern Autobiography considers the many ways in which autobiographical selves emerged from the late medieval period through the seventeenth century with the aim of understanding the interaction between those individuals lives and their worlds the ways in which they could be recorded and the contexts in which they are read In addressing this historical arc the volume develops new readings of significant autobiographical works while also suggesting the importance of texts and contexts that have rarely been analyzed in detail enabling the contributors to reflect on and challenge some prevailing ideas about what it means to write autobiographically and about the development of notions of self representation The idea of the self as seen from diverse and fascinating perspectives on sixteenth and seventeenth century life this is what readers can expect from Early Modern Autobiography A beautifully edited collection genuinely far reaching and insightful Early Modern Autobiography makes known to us a great deal about how people saw themselves four hundred years ago Derek Cohen Professor of English McLaughlin College York University Acutely addressing a range of central issues from subjectivity to theatricality to religion these essays will be of great interest to specialists in early modern studies and students of autobiographical writings from all eras Heather Dubrow Tighe Evans Professor and John Bascom Professor Department of English University of Wisconsin The essays in this volume show where archival discoveries memoirs letters account books wills and marginalia can take us in understanding early modern mentalities They document the interdependence of the abstract and the everyday the social constructedness of self awareness local contexts for self recordation and impulses that range from legal purpose to imaginative escape The sixteen chapters open many fascinating new perspectives on identity and personhood in Renaissance England Lena Cowen Orlin Executive Director The Shakespeare Association of America and Professor of English University of Maryland Baltimore County Ronald Bedford is Reader in the School of English Communication and Theatre at the University of New England in Armidale New South Wales and author of The Defence of Truth Herbert of Cherbury and the Seventeenth Century and Dialogues with Convention Readings in Renaissance Poetry The late Lloyd Davis was Reader in the School of English at the University of Queensland and author of Guise and Disguise Rhetoric and Characterization in the English

Renaissance 1993 and editor of Sexuality and Gender in the English Renaissance 1998 and Shakespeare Matters History Teaching Performance 2003 Philippa Kelly is a Senior Research Fellow at the University of New South Wales and has published widely in the areas of Shakespeare studies cultural studies feminism and postcolonial studies Brave Day, Hideous Night John Rothenstein, 1966 Deaccessioning and Its Discontents Martin Gammon, 2018-07-24 The first history of the deaccession of objects from museum collections that defends deaccession as an essential component of museum practice Museums often stir controversy when they deaccession works formally remove objects from permanent collections with some critics accusing them of betraying civic virtue and the public trust In fact Martin Gammon argues in Deaccessioning and Its Discontents deaccession has been an essential component of the museum experiment for centuries Gammon offers the first critical history of deaccessioning by museums from the seventeenth to the twenty first century and exposes the hyperbolic extremes of deaccession denial the assumption that deaccession is always wrong and deaccession apology when museums justify deaccession by finding some fault in the object as symptoms of the same misunderstanding of the role of deaccessions in proper museum practice He chronicles a series of deaccession events in Britain and the United States that range from the disastrous to the beneficial and proposes a typology of principles to guide future deaccessions Gammon describes the liquidation of the British Royal Collections after Charles I's execution when masterworks were used as barter to pay the king's unpaid bills as establishing a precedent for future deaccessions He recounts among other episodes U S Civil War veterans who tried to reclaim their severed limbs from museum displays the 1972 Hoving affair when the Metropolitan Museum of Art sold a number of works to pay for a Velázquez portrait and Brandeis University's decision later reversed to close its Rose Art Museum and sell its entire collection of contemporary art An appendix provides the first extensive listing of notable deaccessions since the seventeenth century Gammon ultimately argues that vibrant museums must evolve embracing change loss and reinvention

Life, Times and Work of William Gillies, 1898-1973 Andrew McPherson, 2024-11-30 For seventy years William Gillies has been seen as a placid painter of landscape and decorative still life Andrew McPherson explodes this view to reveal a modernist whose response to the instabilities and violence of modernity touched universals of human experience Gillies' idiom was shaped by institutions for artistic production unique to Scotland But it was the politics of Scotland's connections to the rest of the British Isles that produced his mythic and misleading reputation New paintings and new meanings are uncovered placing the micro effects of modernity on mental health family and community in the wider contexts of war nationalism and public patronage McPherson also shows how this changing world led Gillies towards new applications of modernist expression Lavishly illustrated and referencing almost one thousand works this major reappraisal is an indispensable source on the cultural politics of a four nation state and the reception of modernism in Britain

Modernism and the Aesthetics of Violence Paul Sheehan, 2013-06-24 This book addresses the subject of violence as it features in celebrated modernist works from the early twentieth century It traces the modernist fascination with violence back to the middle decades of the nineteenth century when certain writers in France and England sought to celebrate dissident sexualities and stylized criminality Brave Day, Hideous Night.
