Broken Blossoms:

Romance and the Yellow Peril Gina Marchetti, 1994-02-15 Hollywood films about Asians and interracial sexuality are the focus of Gina Marchetti's provocative new work. While miscegenation might seem an unlikely theme for Hollywood, Marchetti shows how fantasy dramas of interracial rape, lynching, tragic love, and model marriage are powerfully evident in American cinema. The author begins with a discussion of D. W. Griffith's Broken Blossoms, then considers later films such as Shanghai Express, Madame Butterfly, and the recurring geisha movies. She also includes some fascinating forgotten films that have been overlooked by critics until now. Marchetti brings the theoretical perspective of recent writing on race, ethnicity, and gender to her analyses of film and television and argues persuasively that these media help to perpetuate social and racial inequality in America. Noting how social norms and taboos have been simultaneously set and broken by Hollywood filmmakers, she discusses the orientalist tensions underlying the construction of American cultural identity. Her book will be certain to interest readers in film, Asian women's, and cultural studies.

Melodrama John Mercer, Martin Shingler, 2004 Melodrama: Genre, Style, and Sensibility is designed as an accessible overview of the often complex debates that emerge out of the connections between melodrama and cinema. The book identifies three distinct but connected concepts through which it is possible to make sense of melodrama: either as a genre originating in European theatre of the 18th and 19th century, as a specific cinematic style epitomised by the work of Douglas Sirk, or as a sensibility that emerges in the context of specific texts speaking to and reflecting the desires, concerns, and anxieties of audiences. Each chapter includes overviews of key essays, analyses of significant and widely studied films, and includes an annotated reading list.

Film, a Modern Art Aaron Sultanik, 1986

D.W. Griffith Richard Schickel, 1996-01-01 He transformed a nickelodeon novelty into a new art form and a powerful, glamorous American industry. He codified the rules and techniques of screen story telling and pioneered the conventions that brought films to life: from surging spectacle to soul-baring close-ups. A poor farm boy from the South, Griffith rose to fame with The Birth of a Nation, a cinematic masterpiece stained by the racism that infected his heritage. Though he went on to direct some of the most legendary films of the silent era, Griffith was doomed by his over-reaching drives, and he died an embittered man, shunned by the community he had largely created. His story is told here with unsparing truth and compelling narrative sweep.

Color, Hair, and Bone Linden Lewis, Glyne A. Griffith, Elizabeth Crespo Keble, 2008 These essays explore various critical dimensions of race from a sociological, anthropological, and literary perspective. They engage with history either textually, materially, or with respect to identity in an effort to demonstrate that these discourses.

The Technique of Film and Video Editing Ken Dancyger, 2013-04-26 The Technique of Film and Video Editing provides a detailed, precise look at the artistic and aesthetic principles and practices of editing for both picture and sound. Analyses of photographs from dozens of classic and contemporary films and videos provide a sound basis for the professional filmmaker and student editor. This book puts into context the storytelling choices an editor will have to make against a background of theory history and practice This new edition has been updated to include the latest advances in digital video and nonlinear editing and explores the new trend of documentary as mainstream entertainment using films such as Farenheit 9 11 and The Fog of War as examples

Mists of Regret Dudley Andrew,2021-11-09 Just before World War II French cinema reached a high point that has been dubbed the style of poetic realism Working with unforgettable actors like Jean Gabin and Arletty directors such as Renoir Carn Gremillon Duvivier and Chenal routinely captured the prizes for best film at every festival and in every country and their accomplishments led to general agreement that the French were the first to give maturity to the sound cinema Here the distinguished film scholar Dudley Andrew examines the motivations and consequences of these remarkable films by looking at the cultural web in which they were made Beyond giving a rich view of the life and worth of cinema in France Andrew contributes substantially to our knowledge of how films are dealt with in history Where earlier studies have treated the masterpieces of this era either in themselves or as part of the vision of their creators and where certain recent scholars have reacted to this by dissolving the masterpieces back into the system of entertainment that made them possible Andrew stresses the dialogue of culture and cinema In his view the films open questions that take us into the culture while our understanding of the culture gives energy direction and consequence to our reading of the films The book demonstrates the value of this hermeneutic approach for one set of texts and one period but it should very much interest film theorists and film historians of all sorts

Shadows of Doubt Barry Keith Grant,2011 In Shadows of Doubt Barry Keith Grant questions the idea that Hollywood movies reflect moments of crisis in the dominant image of masculinity Arguing instead that part of the mythic function of genre movies is to offer audiences an ongoing dialogue on issues of gender Grant explores a wide diversity of films

Lillian Gish Stuart Oderman,2015-07-11 With a theatrical career spanning nearly 100 years Gish saw motion pictures evolve from flickers to blockbusters Usually playing someone needing to be rescued or protected her trademark delicacy and vulnerability belied a strong and complex woman whose fatherless childhood taught her frugality love for her mother and her sister Dorothy and a distrust of men The author who was her friend chronicles the hardships heartaches and fierce determination that shaped her all her days With rare photographs and intimate recollections of Lillian Dorothy and many other important figures

Derek Jarman and Lyric Film Steven Dillon,2004-04-01 Derek Jarman was the most important independent filmmaker in England during the 1980s Using emblems and symbols in associative contexts rather than conventional cause and effect narrative he created films noteworthy for their lyricism and poetic feeling and for their exploration of the gay experience His style of filmmaking also links Jarman with other prominent directors of lyric film including Pier Paolo Pasolini Andrei Tarkovsky Jean Cocteau and Jean Genet This pathfinding book places Derek Jarman in the tradition of lyric film and offers incisive readings of all eleven of his feature length films from Sebastiane to Blue Steven Dillon looks at Jarman and other directors working in a similar vein to establish how lyric films are composed through the use of visual imagery and actual poetry He then traces

Jarman's use of imagery notably mirrors and the sea in his films and discusses in detail the relationship between cinematic representations and sexual identity This insightful reading of Jarman's work helps us better understand how films such as The Last of England and The Garden can be said to cohere and mean without being reduced to clear messages Above all Dillon's book reveals how truly beautiful and brilliant Jarman's movies are French Film Theory and Criticism, Volume 1 Richard Abel, 2020-12-08 These two volumes examine a significant but previously neglected moment in French cultural history the emergence of French film theory and criticism before the essays of Andr Bazin Richard Abel has devised an organizational scheme of six nearly symmetrical periods that serve to bite into the discursive flow of early French writing on the cinema Each of the periods is discussed in a separate and extensive historical introduction with convincing explications of the various concepts current at the time In each instance Abel goes on to provide a complementary anthology of selected texts in translation Amounting to a portable archive these anthologies make available a rich selection of nearly one hundred and fifty important texts most of them never before published in English Cinema's Original Sin Paul

McEwan, 2022-12-13 For over a century cinephiles and film scholars have had to grapple with an ugly artifact that sits at the beginnings of film history D W Griffith's profoundly racist epic The Birth of a Nation inspired controversy and protest at its 1915 release and was defended as both a true history of Reconstruction although it was based on fiction and a new achievement in cinematic art Paul McEwan examines the long and shifting history of its reception revealing how the film became not just a cinematic landmark but also an influential force in American aesthetics and intellectual life In every decade since 1915 filmmakers museums academics programmers and film fans have had to figure out how to deal with this troublesome object and their choices have profoundly influenced both film culture and the notion that films can be works of art Some critics tried to set aside the film's racism and concentrate on the form while others tried to relegate that racism safely to the past McEwan argues that from the earliest film retrospectives in the 1920s to the rise of remix culture in the present day controversies about this film and its meaning have profoundly shaped our understandings of film race and art

Thomas Burke's Dark Chinoiserie Anne Veronica Witchard, 2017-03-02 Focusing on Thomas Burke's bestselling collection of short stories Limehouse Nights 1916 this book contextualises the burgeoning cult of Chinatown in turn of the century London London's Chinese Quarter owed its notoriety to the Yellow Perilism that circulated in Britain at the fin de siècle a demonology of race and vice masked by outward concerns about degenerative metropolitan blight and imperial decline Anne Witchard's interdisciplinary approach enables her to displace the boundaries that have marked Chinese studies literary studies critiques of Orientalism and empire gender studies and diasporic research as she reassesses this critical moment in London's history In doing so she brings attention to Burke's hold on popular and critical audiences on both sides of the Atlantic A much admired and successful author in his time Burke in his Chinatown stories destabilizes social orthodoxies in highly complex and contradictory ways For example his writing was formative in establishing the queer spell that the very mention of Limehouse would exert on the public imagination and circulating libraries responded to Burke's portrayal of a hybrid East End where young Cockney girls eat Chow Mein with chopsticks in the local cafés and blithely gamble their housekeeping money at Fan Tan by banning Limehouse Nights Witchard's book forces us to rethink Burke's influence and shows that China and chinoiserie served as mirrors that reveal the cultural disquietudes of western art and culture

The Movies in the Age of Innocence, 3d ed. Edward Wagenknecht, 2014-10-01 Upon its original publication in 1962 Edward Wagenknecht's The Movies in the Age of Innocence immediately earned recognition as a classic in the history of early cinema A tribute to American silent film from the first person perspective of one who grew up with the medium the volume surveys the pre feature and feature era of silent films from a distinctly literary standpoint and considers the careers of directors like D W Griffith and Erich von Stroheim and actors such as Charlie Chaplin Mary Pickford and Lillian Gish With nearly 90 illustrations from early films fan magazines and brochures indices of film titles and names and an appendix containing Wagenknecht's otherwise unavailable 1927 pamphlet Lillian Gish An Interpretation this third edition retains its significance today

D. W. Griffith Anthony Slide, 2012-07-02 D W Griffith 1875 1948 is one of the most influential figures in the history of the motion picture As director of The Birth of a Nation he is also one of the most controversial He raised the cinema to a new level of art entertainment and innovation and at the same time he illustrated for the first time its potential to influence an audience and propagandize a cause Collected together here are virtually all of the interviews given by D W Griffith from the first in 1914 to the last in 1948 Some of the interviews concentrate on specific films including The Birth of a Nation Intolerance and most substantially Hearts of the World while others provide the director with an opportunity to expound on topics of personal interest including the importance of proper exhibition of his and other's films and his search for truth and beauty on screen The interviews are taken from many sources including leading newspapers trade papers and fan magazines They are often marked by humor and by a desire to please the interviewer and thus the reader Griffith may not have been particularly enthusiastic about giving interviews but he seems always determined to put on a good show Ultimately D W Griffith Interviews provides the reader with a unique insight into the mind and filmmaking techniques of a director whose work and philosophy is as relevant today as it was when he was at the height of his fame in the 1910s and 1920s

From Fu Manchu to Kung Fu Panda Naomi Greene, 2014-03-31 Throughout the twentieth century American filmmakers have embraced cinematic representations of China Beginning with D W Griffith's silent classic Broken Blossoms 1919 and ending with the computer animated Kung Fu Panda 2008 this book explores China's changing role in the American imagination Taking viewers into zones that frequently resist logical expression or more orthodox historical investigation the films suggest the welter of intense and conflicting impulses that have surrounded China They make clear that China has often served as the very embodiment of otherness a kind of yardstick or cloudy mirror of America itself It is a mirror that reflects not only how Americans see the racial other but also a larger landscape of racial sexual and political perceptions that touch on the ways in which the nation envisions itself and its role in the world In the United States the exceptional emotional charge that imbues images of China has tended to swing violently from positive to negative and back again China has been loved and as is generally the case today feared Using film to trace these dramatic fluctuations author Naomi Greene relates them to the larger arc of historical and political change Suggesting that filmic images both reflect and fuel broader social and cultural impulses she argues that they reveal a constant tension or dialectic between the self and the other Significantly with the important exception of films made by Chinese or Chinese American directors the Chinese other is almost invariably portrayed in terms of the American self Placed in a broader context this ethnocentrism is related both to an ever present sense of American exceptionalism and to a Manichean world view that perceives other countries as friends or enemies Greene analyzes a series of influential films including classics like Shanghai Express 1932 The Bitter Tea of General Yen 1933 The Good Earth 1936 and Shanghai Gesture 1941 important cold war films such as The Manchurian Candidate 1962 and The Sand Pebbles 1966 and a range of contemporary films including Chan is Missing 1982 The Wedding Banquet 1993 Kundun 1997 Mulan 1998 and Shanghai Noon 2000 Her consideration makes clear that while many stereotypes and racist images of the past have been largely banished from the screen the political cultural and social impulses they embodied are still alive and well
