Kabamba Kiboko, 2018-08-23 An examination of the language of divination in the Hebrew Bible particularly in 1 Samuel 28 3 25 the oft called Witch of Endor passage Kiboko contends that much of the vocabulary of divination in this passage and beyond has been mistranslated in authorized English and other translations used in Africa and in scholarly writings Kiboko argues that the woman of Endor is not a witch The woman of Endor is rather a diviner much like other ancient Near Eastern and modern African diviners She resists an inner biblical conquest theology and a monologic authoritarian view of divination to assist King Saul by various means including invoking the spirit of a departed person Samuel Kiboko carries out a Hebrew word study shaped by the theories of Mikhail M Bakhtin regarding the utterance heteroglossia and dialogism in order to understand the designative connotative emotive and associative meanings of the many divinatory terms in the Hebrew Bible She then examines 1 Samuel 28 and a number of prior translations thereof using the ideological framework of African feminist postcolonial biblical interpreters and translation theories to uncover the hidden ideology or transcript of these translations Finally using African contextual cultural hermeneutics and cross cultural translation theory Kiboko offers new English French and Kisanga translations of this passage that are both faithful to the original text and more appropriate to an inculturated liberation African Christian hermeneutic theology and praxis Divining Ecstasy Sean Shayan, 2001 The Oxford History of Life-writing Karen Anne Winstead, Alan Stewart, 2018 The Oxford History of Life Writing Volume 1 The Middle Ages explores the richness and variety of life writing in the Middle Ages ranging from Anglo Latin lives of missionaries prelates and princes

Divination and Oracles Michael Loewe, Carmen Blacker, 2021-12-30 First published in 1981 Divination and Oracles analyses the religious practices of the ancient world as they have been witnessed from Scandinavia to Tibet and Japan from the third millennium BC until the present day Divination and the consultation of oracles formed part of the religious practice of the ancient world and are part of the living folklore of the contemporary societies They are subjects that are of immediate concern to anthropologists and not infrequently to the historians of early science Written by the specialists in the early history of European and Asian Civilisations the chapters call on the evidence of the written word of history and the surviving artefacts and inscriptions of archaeology They describe the different methods that have been adopted and examine the types of question that feature in man's attempt to seek guidance from other powers The contributions show how an appeal to the irrational can affect the decision of prophet or statesman or the way of life of farmer or sailor and how such an appeal can also stimulate scientific enquiry into the cycles of nature This book is a must read for scholars and researchers of religion comparative religion and ancient history
