Essays on the Distinguishing Traits of Christian Character Gardiner Spring, 1819 The Distinguishing Traits of Christian Character Gardiner Spring, 2009 Essays On the Distinguishing Traits of Christian Character Gardiner Spring, 2023-07-18

In this collection of essays Gardiner Spring discusses various aspects of Christian character that set it apart from other belief systems. Topics covered include forgiveness, humility, contentment, and love. Spring writes from the perspective of a pastor and provides practical advice on how to cultivate Christian character traits in one's own life. This is an excellent read for Christians looking to deepen their faith and better understand what it means to be a follower of Christ. This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it. This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations. The Distinguishing Traits of Christian Character Gardiner Spring, 2015-01-06

What must I do to be saved? How may I know that I am saved? It is obvious that these are two different questions and it is just as clear that the Bible gives a specific answer to each of them. In answer to the first question, the Biblical directive is unmistakable: One must repent of sin and believe in Jesus Christ, the Lord, if he is to be saved. Acts 20:21. All Spirit-wounded, convicted sinners must be urged to look away from themselves and in a penitent faith to fix the gaze of their souls upon Christ alone for mercy, as He is offered to them in the Gospel. But the second question demands a different answer. How one may know that he has truly repented and believed is not a question touching the ground or means of one's acceptance before God, but rather the proof and evidence of one's saving relationship to Him in Christ. The Bible's answer to this question is that we must examine ourselves and prove ourselves whether we be in the faith. Accompanying that command, the same Scriptures lay out objective evidence of the fruits of true repentance and faith. Great confusion and subsequent delusion has flooded the professing church in our generation through a failure to distinguish the difference in the Bible's answer to these two questions. In most Evangelical circles today, anyone who asks the question, "How may I know that I am saved and that I have truly repented and believed?" is encouraged to simply rest on a text which declares that all believers are saved. But this is circuitous reasoning and fails to come to grips with the real issue. The answer given to this vital question by the author of this little volume proceeds along a different line of evidence, one which has far more of the sanction of the Bible and of Historic Christianity. His thesis is that there are what he terms distinguishing traits evidenced in the true sons of God, which traits are the accumulative indication that God has begun a good work in the soul. Thus he begins his essays by stating some of those things which are not an evidence that we have been savingly joined to Christ, and he concludes his treatise by setting forth
