Zoom In, Zoom Out Sandra Barriaes-Bouche, Marjorie Attignol Salvodon, 2009-03-26 In the context of the transformations that Europe is undergoing Zoom in Zoom out Crossing Borders in Contemporary European Cinema attempts to serve as a testimony to the multiple ways in which European filmmakers are questioning the many borders of the continent European films have become a vital cultural space where the relationship between borders and identity is being renegotiated The films discussed here self consciously address the question of European identity while overtly crossing geographic cultural linguistic and aesthetic borders While all the articles explore the crossing of borders in Contemporary European films the volume maintains diverse themes and perspectives as subtopics It includes articles not only about films that deal thematically with border crossings but also articles that examine movies that cross borders in genres and techniques The articles have different theoretical approaches Film theory Cultural Studies History Sociology Philosophy and Psychoanalysis and cover films from well known cinematic traditions French Spanish German and Italian as well as lesser known cinematic traditions Yugoslavian Greek and Irish As a whole the essays frame the self conscious gesture by European filmmakers to define European cinema as a work in progress or at the very least as a project that like Europe itself raises as many questions as it answers This volume is a welcome addition to the growing critical literature on the evolution of the conception and practice of national cinema in Europe over the last two decades Sandra Barriaes Bouche and Marjorie Attignol Salvodon have chosen a solid selection of representative case studies that reflects different critical approaches to the problem of maintaining local or national cinema production in Europe during a period of intense globalization Their insightful introduction formulates the theme of unsettled borders and renegotiated identities that will resonate in the nine essays that follow With a focus on the critical concept of these unsettled borders the various authors explore the ways that the traditional mark of national space has been transformed through political and economic realignments as well as new technologies and the emergence of a new generation of filmmakers for whom national cinema no longer means what it did even twenty years ago The volume provides a good balance of critical approaches that includes auteur studies descriptions of state policies and the particular practices of filmmakers and producers in different parts of the continent Spain Germany Ireland the Balkans and finally useful appendices that provide a close up view of the complex nature of international co productions Marvin D Lugo Professor of Spanish Clark University This is an interesting collection of essays that has been well conceived and organised The standard of writing is high and I recommend publication I particularly commend the conceptual framework underpinning the volume This marries a cultural studies approach which still dominates the study of film in Area Studies and language departments across Europe and the US where filmic texts are increasingly used as teaching tools with the more industry based focus one tends to find adopted by Media and Screen Studies departments Thus this collection will appeal to a wide range of students and academics The introduction sets out the volume s overarching framework cogently and clearly giving a nuanced exploration of the way that the notion of the border can be used as a dynamic prism to help define and explore the limits of our understanding of Europe European identity and European culture within which cinema has long played a key role The editors give a good account for example of the way film has been employed as a space to explore the possibilities of European integration by EU politicians as well as highlighting the flaws inherent within this project They do however perhaps suggest a certain Western European North American centric view in their suggestion that the cinema of Yugoslavia Greece or Ireland is somehow less well known than other national and transnational cinemas explored here Less well known to whom However from the broad range of cinemas explored in the rest of the volume clearly this is not the case Particular high points for me are the chapters on the work of Fatih Akin by Janis Little Solomon and John Davidson s discussion of Schulze gets the Blues as well as Olivier Asselin s fascinating account of Database Cinema This will be a good addition to scholarship on European film and I look forward to receiving my copy Professor Paul Cooke University of Leeds

Renaissance Go-Betweens

Andreas Höfele, Werner von Koppenfels, 2011-12-22 The volume analyses some of the travelling and bridge building activities that went on in Renaissance Europe mainly but not exclusively across the Channel true to Montaigne s epoch making program of describing the passage Its emphasis on Anglo Continental relations ensures a firm basis in English literature but its particular appeal lies in its European point of view and in the perspectives it opens up into other areas of early modern culture such as pictorial art philosophy and economics The multiple implications of the go between concept make for structured diversity The chapters of this book are arranged in three stages Part 1 Mediators focuses on influential go betweens both as groups like the translators and as individual mediators The second part of this book Mediations is concerned with individual acts of mediation and with the mental topographies they presuppose reflect and redraw in their turn Part 3 Representations looks at the role of exemplary intermediaries and the workings of mediation represented on the early modern English stage Key features High quality anthology on phenomena of cultural exchange in the Renaissance era With contributions by outstanding international experts

Reflections on Europe Hans-Åke Persson, 2007

When Dutch and subsequently French voters rejected the Draft Treaty for a Constitution for Europe in Spring 2005 many voices called for a pause for reflection This book is in part a result of that moment of reflection We wanted to contribute to the debate about Europe but crucially we sought to do so by taking a step back from the problem formation and agenda setting of Brussels For the authors of this volume one key to establishing critical distance has been the reappraisal of the historical perspective Another has been the problematisation of Europe as a space as opposed to looking for a definition of borders The authors also seek critical distance through a focus on the tension between Europe as a culture as a polity and as an economy These tensions have often been neglected or even ignored and the relationships have been seen as more or less synonymous and harmonious The aim of this volume then is two fold It wants developing a critical distance to the present Europe to contribute to the vivid academic research and debate on Europe which too often either develops distance without commenting on the present state of affairs or comments on the present without critical distance European

Society William Outhwaite,2016-03-18 Does it make sense to speak of a European society above and beyond its component states and regions In this major new book William Outhwaite argues that it does He goes beyond the study of individual states and specific regions of Europe to examine the changing contours of the continent as a whole at a time when Europe is beginning to look and act more like a single entity In what we have come to call Europe there developed distinctive forms of political economic and more broadly social organisation many of course building on elements drawn from more advanced civilisations elsewhere in the world During the centuries of European dominance these forms were often exported to other world regions where the export versions often surpassed the original ones In the present century many features of European life remain distinctive the European welfare or social model a substantially secularised culture and particular forms of democratic politics and of the relations between politics and the economy This book provides a concise overview and analysis of these features which continue to make Europe a relatively distinctive region of global modernity The book will become a key text for students taking courses on contemporary Europe whether these are in departments of politics sociology literature or European Studies It will also be of great interest to anyone living in or concerned with Europe today The German Social Democracy Victor Strazzeri,2022-09-26 The Young Max Weber and German Social Democracy examines the formative years of a classic social thinker once called the bourgeois Marx from the standpoint of his relationship to the foremost working class organization of his time It argues that Weber s early engagement with the standpoint of the rural worker not his later study of the ethics of ascetic Protestant entrepreneurs first convinced him of the central role of culture in human agency The crisis of liberalism in a rapidly modernising conflict ridden Imperial Germany embarking on colonial expansion emerges in the work as the decisive setting for the genesis of Weberian social thought the rising labour movement in turn as the young Weber s little know yet crucial interlocutor The Birth of Europe Jacques Le Goff,2009-02-04 In this ground breaking new study Jacques Le Goff arguably the leading medievalist of his generation presents his view of the primacy of the Middle Ages in the development of European history A superb and necessary book This provocative assessment from a lifetime of scholarship might help us to place ourselves not just territorially but in that other precious element of history time The Guardian A book that never fails to be informative readable and provocative Le Goff has been the bravest and best of champions for medieval history This book is in every sense an inspiration BBC History Magazine Praised by prominent figures in Europe and history including Rt Hon Christopher Patten CH Former Member of the European Commission and Neil Kinnock Vice President European Commission
